REPUBLICAN PARTY CHAIRMAN TO OPEN OFFICE IN CAPITAL

Year-Around Activity
Plan Of Claudius
H. Huston.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The new Republican national chairman, Claudius H. Huston of Tennessee, is preparing today to match the activity of the Democrats by placing the Republican national party organization on an all-around-the-year basis.

Huston has told his party colleagues the work of party organization is not a spasmodic affair but a year round task, and party headquarters here are to be recognized on that basis.

It appears as if politics at last is yielding to the urge for efficiency for both national party organizations are being placed on a more business-like basis.

John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, has established his organization on a permanent basis by placing Jovette Shouse, executive chairman, in charge of headquarters here with a large staff. Shouse is keeping up a steady bombardment of activity and his pounding of the house tariff bill is regarded as having been partly responsible for the scaling down which the senate committee did.

It is this activity by the Democrats, many here believe, which prompted Mr. Hoover to put Huston on the job at this time.

Huston's task, however, will be much different from that of Shouse. The Democrats are so badly divided internally that the question of candidates must be held far in the background while the wounds of 1928 are healed. While some friends of Alfred E. Smith believe he is a possibility for the Democratic nomination next time, few Republican leaders expect it. They believe they will have to fight a man more acceptable to the South than Smith was and if so Huston's job is likely to be more difficult than was that of his predecessor. He is the first Republican national chairman from south of the Mason and Dixon line.

Huston, however, has no such division within his party over candidates as Shouse has to wrestle with in the Democratic organization. Huston is an original Hoover man and will exert himself to see that his chief is renominated if any exertion is necessary.

GRAPPLE FOR AUTO BELIEVED IN PIT

ELYRIA, O., Sept. 10.—Heavy grappling tools were used here today in another attempt to pull a heavy object, believed to be an automobile, out of a quarry hole to see if several persons wanted to their death when their car plunged over the embankment.

The object is fifty feet under water. Light fishing tools were employed Sunday but they broke before the load reached the surface of the water. The hole is that of an old, abandoned quarry.

Hundreds of persons were grouped about the hole today watching the work. Laborers from a nearby plant had reported they saw large oil spots on the water and air bubbles on the surface.

DEACON ARRESTED FOR BOOTLEGGING

BEECHER, Ill., Sept. 10.—A whiskey "cutting" plant, forged Canadian and American revenue stamps and large quantities of Canadian whiskey, alcohol and moonshine were seized Sunday in the home of Henry F. Bahlman, justice of the peace and church deacon, federal authorities revealed today.

Authorities said Bahlman and his son, Henry W. Bahlman, dentist, had been arrested and freed on bonds of $1,500 each. Both waived examination.

Bahlman, it was charged, used his high position in the community to gain a clientele of prosperous citizens in the surrounding sections of the county.

TOKIO INUNDATED RESULT OF RAINS

TOKIO, Sept. 10.—More than 3,000 houses in greater Tokyo were inundated today and transportation and traffic were temporarily disrupted as a result of three days of continuous rains and typhoon conditions. No lives were endangered.

A typhoon of increasing intensity was also reported to be raging along the northwest coast of Japan, particularly in the vicinity of Honfu. Telegraph and telephone lines were disrupted and coastwise shipping was endangered.

SET NEW RECORD
DOVER, O., Sept. 10.—A post-war record for August steel production has been established by the American Sheet and Tin Plate and the Reeves Manufacturing Co. Sixteen hundred men are employed at the mills which have worked at capacity for many weeks.

PLANE PASSENGERS DEAD BEFORE BLAST COMPANY BELIEVES

Denies T. A. T. Pilot
Started Against Better Judgment

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 10.—Flying at full speed the Transcontinental Air Transport trimotor plane crashed head-on into a mountain with such force that all occupants of the plane were killed before gasoline in the tanks exploded burning the ship and its contents, according to an official statement released by the general offices of T. A. T. here today.

The statement was based on the reports of examination of the wreckage by Paul Collins, general superintendent of T. A. T. who made the investigation report, and Col. Charles A. Landberg, technical adviser, who surveyed the scene of the accident in a circling plane.

The statement follows: "Too many things are involved to give an irrefutable cause of the accident. From a survey of the facts obtainable it is our opinion that Pilot Stowe crashed into the ground at full speed and under full control. He may have been blinded momentarily by a severe storm.

"A dangerous storm area was not indicated by any of the weather reports and must have been very local in character. Just before taking off for Albuquerque, Pilot Stowe was handed a weather report showing visibility, temperature, cloud conditions, barometric pressure and ceiling and other important data from twelve reporting stations in that area, that weather bureau stations and nine T. A. T. stations.

"At none of these places were hazardous flying conditions reported. On the same day our eastbound ship and aircraft of other companies flew the same route without encountering unusual conditions.

"Pilot Stowe did not take off in the face of poor flying conditions or against his better judgment, as one in the T. A. T. organization has the authority to order a pilot to make such a flight.

"It is quite possible that full facts concerning the cause of the tragedy will never be known, but the company realizes its obligation to make public such facts and will do so if they are ever available."

PRIVATE SCHOOL OPENED BY PARENTS

MARTINS FERRY, O., Sept. 10.—Parents of pupils who used to attend thirteen little red school-houses in the rural district west of here, may be arrested for opening a private school for their children against the order of the state department of education.

In a public school which was closed when the rural districts were consolidated by the department, a private school with Miss Alice Devault as teacher, flourished today. The parents of the rural district students hired the teacher and opened their own school rather than send the children to Steele Valley, two miles away, as ordered by the department.

VET TUGMAN DIES
CONNEAUT, O., Sept. 10.—Funeral services for Captain Edward J. Wylie, one of the oldest tugmen of the Great Lakes, who died Saturday at the wheel of his boat, were held here today. Captain Wylie was seventy-three years old and had been on a tug since 1875.

Soviet Threatens Con- sequences; 500 Are Killed

MOSCOW, Sept. 10.—The Soviet foreign office sent a new note to the Mukden and Nanking governments today warning them that they must dissolve the Czarist Russian divisions which have become a part of the Chinese army along the Manchurian-Siberian frontier.

The foreign office at the same time warned the Manchurian and Chinese governments to cease "aggressions" which have been forcing the Red army to respond militarily following incursions into Siberia.

The foreign office delivered its note to the Mukden and Nanking governments through the German embassy, which represents both China and Russia during the current impasse.

The note called attention to a list of eighteen white Russian and Chinese attacks upon the Soviet troops massed along the border since August 19. These attacks, the note said, reached a climax during the past week and when the Red troops were forced to pursue and disperse the attackers.

The note ominously pointed out that "serious consequences" might result from the incursions and border raids of the Czarist "white" Russians and Chinese.

"The only measure for the prevention of new serious complications is the immediate dissolution of the white guard divisions," the note concluded.

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Sept. 10.—Heavy cannonading by Red army artillery was reported today from several points along the 1,900-mile frontier where Soviet forces were said to have resumed their "offensive" against Chinese outposts. Russian attacks, which took a reported toll of 500 casualties over the week end, continued in full force, with both sides using field guns, machine guns and concentrated rifle fire. Soviet planes were used for reconnoitering.

Heaviest fighting was reported in the vicinity of Manchuli, Manchurian border town at the western terminus of the Chinese Eastern Railway. At Pogranichnaya, one of the eastern terminus, looting by brigades was reported following the Sunday bombings by Soviet airplanes.

Exact extent of the casualties in the Manchuli sector was not revealed, but considerable damage was reported at the eighty-sixth waiting station of the railway near the western frontier. Heavy artillery fire was reported from near-by Mulin, with squadrons of Red scout planes hovering overhead. A dispatch direct from Manchuli said the Russians were striking vigorously with both artillery and machine guns. The Chinese troops returned the fire and the loss of life was severe. Bitter cold added to hardship in the trenches.

Dispatches from Pogranichnaya, on the eastern frontier, said brigades were taking advantage of the confusion which followed the river attacks and partial evacuation of parts of the city to start looting. Sixty Russians and Chinese citizens were said to have been wounded by the Sunday bombing.

Matters at Pogranichnaya have become so critical, dispatches from there said, that the Japanese residents of the city requested that their government furnish eight freight cars to transport them and their household goods to the interior.

MANCHULI, Sept. 10.—Thirteen Soviet spies have been arrested and condemned to death for plotting sabotage and planning to create internal disturbances under orders from the Soviet military authorities, it was announced today.

TOKIO, Sept. 10.—Chinese sources estimated today that the Chinese casualties in a five-hour border fight near Manchuli Monday night were more than 100.

DIRECTOR MISSING

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 10.—Coast guards and police today began a search in the Cuyahoga River for John Laboj, 24, physical director of the Clark Ave. bath-house. They feared he may have taken his own life after the drowning of a 16-year-old boy at the Clark pool. Laboj helped recover the body of William Kintop Friday then disappeared.

PHOTO DEPICTS WRECKAGE OF ILL-FATED T. A. T. PLANE

This graphic view of the wreckage of the City of San Francisco clearly shows the tangled mass which had once been the cabin of the huge Transcontinental Air Transport trimotor plane. Here is where the five passengers and crew of three met death, imprisoned in the cabin when the ship caught fire after crashing near the summit of Mount Taylor, N. M., during a heavy storm. This photo, showing members of the first ground party that reached the wreckage, was snapped by a Central Press photographer, rushed to Los Angeles by plane and then telephoned to the Central Press plants in New York and Cleveland.

BRITISH NAVY PLAN WILL UPSET HOOVER REDUCTION DREAMS

MacDonald Will Be Urged To Oppose Admiralty

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—President Hoover's dream of naval reduction in the cruiser class appeared to be fading today as discussion of Premier MacDonald's estimate of British needs continued.

Unless MacDonald can be persuaded to go against his admiralty the most likely result of the negotiations in progress between London and Washington will be limitation of cruiser strength instead of reduction.

Application of the reduction principle advanced by Mr. Hoover in his Memorial Day speech at Arlington National Cemetery would be restricted to capital ships and possibly submarines if the cruiser problem were found to be insoluble along those lines.

An effort will be made to salvage the president's cruiser reduction program by appealing to MacDonald, the United Press understands, but the tight-lipped reticence of persons actually on the inside of the negotiations indicates doubt as to the outcome. Policies of humanity and economy entered into the naval reduction program as stated by Mr. Hoover and amplified last spring by Secretary of State Stimson.

Mr. Hoover spoke of its direct relation to peace and the secretary counted the cost of naval competition in dollars.

"We do not always realize," Stimson said, "the immense material burden which is imposed upon the nations of the world today by the cost of modern ships of war. A modern 10,000-ton cruiser costs double the original cost of the library of congress."

MUSIC MERCHANTS MEET IN COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 10.—Charles H. Yahrling of Youngstown led the business discussion that opened today's session of the Music Merchants Association of Ohio in convention here.

"Overhead" was the theme of the conference. Executives of retail stores only were admitted.

Governor Cooper, Mayor Thompson and Claude M. Alford of Canton were to speak at the luncheon.

Demonstrations of musical instruments was scheduled for the afternoon.

WITHHOLDS BOOKS

HAMILTON, O., Sept. 10.—Joseph H. Dubois, former Butler County treasurer, today declared he would not surrender the books and funds of the Miami Conservancy to his successor, Mrs. Lillian Kinzer, until completion of an official check of the accounts by state authorities. Mrs. Kinzer had demanded the funds and books and has appealed to county and state authorities to expedite the transfer.

TARIFF LEADERS WILL SETTLE VARE CASE AT ONCE, IS REPORT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The harassed Republican tariff leaders in the senate have decided to make the best of the bad situation into which they were thrown when the farm bloc injected the Vare case into their tariff debate.

Instead of seeking to delay action on the resolution to oust Senator-elect William S. Vare of Pennsylvania, which would of necessity delay the tariff bill also, they have agreed to settle the issue at once.

If Vare is denied his seat, which seems inevitable, then Gov. John S. Fisher of Pennsylvania, a friend of Secretary of Treasury Mellon, is empowered to appoint a Republican to fill his place.

Working out this way, the situation might cause the Republicans to lose the Vare case, but they could gain a note in the pending tariff fight, in which they need every vote they can get.

This method was accepted, because it appeared to be the only way out of the tangle into which they found themselves when Senator Morris, the farm bloc Republican, unexpectedly introduced yesterday a resolution of the highest privilege, proposing to deny Vare his seat because of his $800,000 primary campaign expenditures in 1928, which the resolution and constituted "fraud and corruption."

The farm bloc is against the tariff bill and against Vare and they have a working agreement with the Democrats which may constitute a majority of the senate on both issues. The Norris strategy made the Republicans face the alternative of delaying the tariff bill.

The Vare defense is in the hands of Senator David A. Reed, Rep., Pa., who says he expects the case to be disposed of within a few days.

Running along parallel with the Vare case is the pending Simmons resolution proposing to set aside the treasury's secrecy on income tax returns so the Democrats and farm bloc members may see how much money is being made by the corporations seeking increased tariff protection.

The Simmons resolution is being strongly contested by the Republican leaders, Reed and Chairman Smooth of the senate finance committee. They contend the figures desired by the opposition are already available and if they are not the resolution would betray trade secrets of corporations to their competitors.

The only other important senate business of the day was the private hearing given by the naval affairs committee to Senator Borah of Idaho who is seeking an investigation of anti-disarmament lobbies alleged to have been conducted by shipbuilding interests.

ONLY FIVE DRUNKS SEEN ON TRIP

WESTERVILLE, O., Sept. 10.—T. G. Hobbs, retired English manufacturer from Luton, England, told officials of the World League Against Alcoholism here today that in his trip across America he had seen but five intoxicated persons.

Hobbs declared he had seen no evidence of liquor in hotels and that folks did not talk about prohibition unless he brought up the subject himself.

"I would not recommend a prohibition campaign in Great Britain," Hobbs said.

FLAGS DISPLAYED

HAMILTON, O., Sept. 10.—Flags were displayed here today as a gesture of patriotism during the visit of the Ohio Revolutionary Memorial Commission authorized by the last legislature. It is possible Hamilton may be chosen for one of the statues to commemorate the deeds of pioneer heroes and statesmen.

WELDING PROCESS FEATURES MEETING OF METAL CONGRESS

Aluminum And Its Alloys Welded By New System

CLEVELAND, Sept. 10.—A new process of welding, which may revolutionize the manufacture of transportation vehicles, today held the interest of the 6000 scientists and business men here to attend the eleventh annual national metal congress.

The new process, said to make possible the welding of aluminum and its super-strength alloys, was discussed at the business and technical session of the American Welding Society. The society is one of five scientific bodies participating in the congress, meeting concurrently throughout the week with the national metal exposition in Public Hall.

Laboratories throughout this country, Europe and the Orient, interested in the development of ferrous and non-ferrous metals have sent their best scientific minds to attend the gathering. The delegates represent the membership of the American Society for Steel Treating, the American Welding Society, Institute of Metals, American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers and the Iron and Steel Division of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

The only other important senate business of the day was the private hearing given by the naval affairs committee to Senator Borah of Idaho who is seeking an investigation of anti-disarmament lobbies alleged to have been conducted by shipbuilding interests.

ADMITS SLAYING

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 10.—Two men were held here today for the murder of Rocco Dillitto, 50, Assistant County Prosecutor Frank Colebreese said one of the men, a laborer, confessed last night that he killed Dillitto for making disrespectful remarks about a woman relative. Dillitto was ordered to pay $400, according to the confession, and when he refused he was murdered.

BRITISH AVIATOR SETS SPEED RECORD

CALSHOT, England, Sept. 10.—In an astounding twenty-minute flight over a three kilometer course, Squadron Leader A. H. Orlebar today established a speed record which experts believed to be greater than Major De Bernhardt's record of 318.62 miles an hour. Unofficial estimates placed Orlebar's speed at 350 miles an hour.

His exact speed could not be announced as it will take hours to develop the photographic films showing the passage from start to finish. This new system of computation was used for the first time today.

BELIEVE LYNCING OF DEFENSE LAWYERS PLAN OF KIDNAPERS

Crowds Enraged As Mistrial Called In Murder Case

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 10.—As a climax to the dramatic mistrial of sixteen Gastonia textile strikers here charged with the fatal shooting of Police Chief Aderholt of Gastonia, three leaders of the National Textile Workers' Union were kidnapped by an anti-communist mob late last night in Gastonia and are believed to have been brought to Charlotte as decoys in a plot to lynch Tom Jimison, one of the defense attorneys in the trial of the strikers.

Cliff Saylor and Morris Wells, organizers, and C. M. Leil, one of the defendants on bail on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon as a result of the rioting June 7 in which Aderholt was killed, were the victims of the raid.

After kidnapping the trio, the mob raided the offices of the International Labor Defense in Gastonia, seized quantities of propaganda and threw it into the street. The crowd, shouting "get the Reds," then sped to a union boarding house in Gastonia in search of Hugo Ohler, and William Dunn, organizers, and other communist leaders.

Unable to locate them, the mob moved on to the strikers tent colony at Bessemer City, two miles from Gastonia. It was not known what if any damage was done there.

Speeding in automobiles from the tent colony the crowd proceeded in the direction of Charlotte, twenty miles away.

The party was encountered by John M. Roberts, Jr., city editor of the Charlotte Observer enroute home.

"I heard cries of 'get Tom Jimison and string him up,'" Roberts said. "On the streets were guards. They repeated the cry. They said they were 'officers of the law.'"

Roberts said the crowd went to Jimison's office and later to his home and when they failed to find him the members of the mob scattered.

The mob barely missed Ohler, who was in a restaurant near Jimison's office with Leon Josephson, a defense attorney. On hearing the commotion they and other organizers in the place fled.

"We had been warned the crowd was on the way," Josephson said. "We became real suspicious when Wells called on the telephone and asked Ohler to meet him in an out of the way spot. Because Wells speaks Yiddish we put a man on the phone to converse with him in that language. The party at the other end could not carry on a conversation and of course we suspected the plot."

At the Walton Hotel, William Schumacker, night clerk, said about twenty-five members of the mob asked to see Ohler. They departed peacefully when told he did not live there.

Ohler was one of three organizers who was attacked by a mob last Saturday while enroute to a strikers meeting.

The uprising in Gastonia is said to have been caused by advance announcements that Amy Schechter, Sophie Melvin and Vera Bush, three of the defendants on murder charges in connection with the Aderholt shooting, were to make speeches there tonight.

Early today they were reported in hiding. Dr. John R. Neal, famous defender of John T. Scopes in the Tennessee evolution trial, was seized in a hotel lobby after being warned of the disturbance and immediately demanded protection from police. Shortly thereafter Jimison arrived. He was without a necktie. Both were pale, worried and nervous.

The mistrial of the sixteen textile workers occurred after Juror J. G. Campbell, 38 year old newspaper vendor, slender and undersized, collapsed from the mental strain of the long proceedings.

While Campbell lay in his cell at the state hospital for the insane where he had been removed, Judge M. V. Barnhill declared a mistrial.

Gov. Max Gardner has issued orders for another special session of court on Sept. 30 when the defendants will be tried again.

YOUTH THANKS MAN WHO INSPIRED HIM TO RECOVER HEALTH

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 10.—A youth of 18, bedfast for more than a year, sprang nimbly up the steps of a little white home here. He pressed the doorbell quickly four times, then twice slowly, followed by four short rings.

From inside the snug little home a gray-haired man appeared.

"Why—why, Clayton! Am I imagining this?" the man beamed.

The warm handclasp that followed was anything but imaginary.

Clayton Lord, Monroeville boy, recovered from his long illness, had come to thank Jay J. Loucks, New York Central engineer, for keeping his spirit up during the long hours of sickness and for aiding in his complete recovery.

While playing basketball the boy sustained a broken rib, which became imbedded in his lung. Day after day he lay on a bed in the sunporch which faced the railroad track.

A year ago last January, Loucks, on his regular run, noticed the white face pressed wistfully against the window. He remembered his own youth and days of sickness. At his next passing he pulled the whistle cord four times quickly, then slowly twice, followed by four short blasts. It was his "hello signal."

By days Clayton answered with a wave of his handkerchief. At night he pulled the electric light cord in a corresponding "hello signal." The greetings continued for a year. They met for the first time.

Newspapers heard of the strange friendship between engineer and sick youth. They sent men to interview the boy. Then Clayton went to the hospital for another operation. The signals were discontinued.

They met again when the youth burst in upon his gray-haired friend. They went back over that period of long days and nights when each grew accustomed to waiting for the other's "hello signal."

"Gee, it feels wonderful to be walking around again and being hungry and going on picnics," Clayton declared warmly.

RADIO TO PRESENT FAMOUS OPERAS

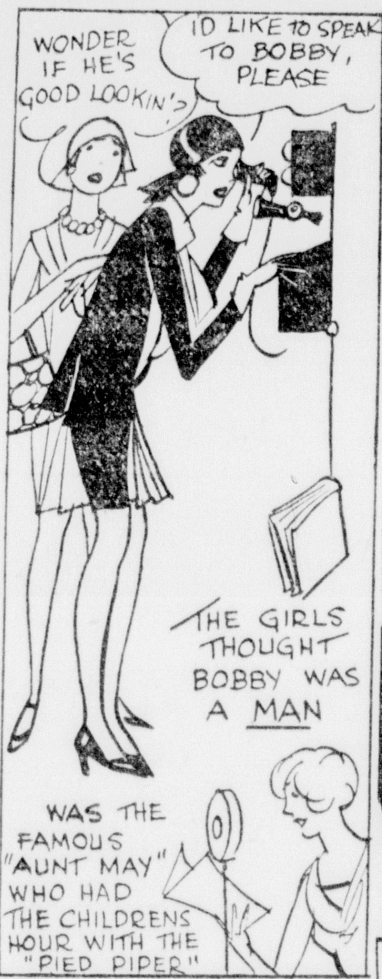

Thirty-three of the world's most famous operas will be presented by the National Grand Opera Co., through a coast-to-coast network of the National Broadcasting Co., during the 1929-30 season, it is announced.

An hour and one-half each week will be devoted to the operatic presentations. "Cavalleria Rusticana" by Mascagni will open the radio season September 18 at 10:30 p. m. Eastern daylight saving time, with Cesare Sodero directing.

Astrid Fjelde will sing the soprano role of Santuzza and the contralto parts will be taken by Devora Nadworney and Alma Kitchell, while Julian Oliver will sing the tenor role and Nino Fucile the baritone part. Both Bisset's "Carmen" and "Il Pagliacci" by Leoncavallo will be repeated this season.

The season's opera numbers include La Traviata, Lohengrin, Rigoletto, Aida, Faust, Samson and Delilah, Martha, Hansel and Gretel, Mignon, Il Trovatore and others.

BEAUTY OF RADIOLAND FOOLED 'EM ALL WITH MASCULINE VOICE

(Editor's Note: This is another of a series of sketches of the most prominent radio artists of the day. Others follow.)

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY
NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—We don't expect much argument from the boys around the broadcasting studio where Harriet Lee holds forth when we tell you that, in our humble opinion, she is about the prettiest girl on the air.

Golden blonde hair in a flat finger wave curving over her lovely head—and blue eyes with a deep, intelligent expression. Creamy skin. Tall and just slender enough to look wholesome and girlish. A true American type of beauty.

We have a surprise for the folks out around Chicago. It never has been told before, Harriet assures us.

She is the mysterious "Bobby Lee" who used to broadcast with Ted Fiorito's orchestra at Edgewater Beach. The "mike" was in a little room and Harriet never was seen by her public. She wore small ear phones to listen to the music while she warbled.

It was the general opinion that the clever crooner of mean blues was a man. Many and many were the letters written by smitten girls wanting to have just one look at Bobby Lee, to see whether "he" was as good looking as "his" voice was appealing. And they used to keep the telephone buzzing, wanting to have just a little word with Bobby.

This amused Harriet very much. It was an intriguing stunt and a good publicity gag. When her fans find out that she is also the famous "Aunt May," who had the Children's Hour every night with the "Pied Piper," they probably will have to have the smelling salts. She was one of the best known radio stars in Chicago for four and a half years before coming to New York.

Now she is on a coast to coast hook-up and her Chicago gang can still tune in and hear "Aunt May"—dear Auntie May who used to put the little folk to bed so sweetly—sing red hot songs that make Dame Sophie Tucker look to her posies as "the last of the red hot mammas."

It is just impossible to imagine Harriet Lee singing in such a deep contralto that she sounds like a man. She is so entirely feminine in her speaking voice and manner. For that matter, this hoty totsy little blonde has two very distinct singing voices. So that she can switch suddenly from a manly blue song to a lady-like yodel.

Harriet has just gone through a movie test. It's a safe bet that the gabbling cinema will finally claim the little lady from the land of machine guns and Big Bill Thompson.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

October 6-12

—It Pays to Observe It

Fire Prevention Week is an occasion of Presidential Proclamation—the Governors of our States also proclaim it. These are indications of its importance and significance to the public.

Communities which have adequately and intelligently observed Fire Prevention Week have profited by substantial reductions in the amount and number of fire losses occurring within that week, and the weeks immediately following.

650 Cities Have Year-round Program

Under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, 650 cities are competing in continuous programs of fire prevention and protection. In these cities Fire Prevention Week is an occasion for a fresh yearly start.

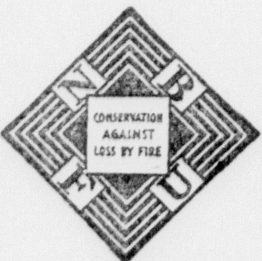

Chambers of Commerce and similar bodies realize that the prevention of destruction by fire of an existing industrial plant is just as important as the winning of a new enterprise for the community.

When fire puts men out of work they frequently leave the city or become a community problem such as arises in any locality lacking employment opportunity.

A Comprehensive Program

The unusual facilities and information which the Stock Fire Insurance companies provide have been extensively used in such work and are constantly available to any individual, organization or community.

Comprehensive and intelligent programs of fire prevention and protection have been important factors in the reduction of the National Fire Waste and in making communities safer. This information may be obtained from the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

How do you choose?

EVERY time you make a purchase you make a choice.

Buying a certain product may be so much a matter of habit that you don't realize you are choosing. But the fact remains that in accepting one brand of goods you are always rejecting others; and the satisfaction you get from what you buy depends on the knowledge of quality and values that guides your selection.

How do you know which bed - sheets, or which roofing material, or which radio will give you service you require? You can't personally test everything you buy and compare it with all the other products in its class. But there is a way to find out which brand fits your needs.

The people who are most successful in their buying—who achieve the highest percentage of satisfaction from the things they own and use—are those who consistently read the advertising columns, and buy consistently advertised goods.

Choosing isn't just "guessing" when you follow the guidance of the advertisements.

You can depend on advertised goods. It pays to read the advertisements.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—We don't expect much argument from the boys around the broadcasting studio where Harriet Lee holds forth when we tell you that, in our humble opinion, she is about the prettiest girl on the air.

Golden blonde hair in a flat finger wave curving over her lovely head—and blue eyes with a deep, intelligent expression. Creamy skin. Tall and just slender enough to look wholesome and girlish. A true American type of beauty.

We have a surprise for the folks out around Chicago. It never has been told before, Harriet assures us.

She is the mysterious "Bobby Lee" who used to broadcast with Ted Fiorito's orchestra at Edgewater Beach. The "mike" was in a little room and Harriet never was seen by her public. She wore small ear phones to listen to the music while she warbled.

It was the general opinion that the clever crooner of mean blues was a man. Many and many were the letters written by smitten girls wanting to have just one look at Bobby Lee, to see whether "he" was as good looking as "his" voice was appealing. And they used to keep the telephone buzzing, wanting to have just a little word with Bobby.

This amused Harriet very much. It was an intriguing stunt and a good publicity gag. When her fans find out that she is also the famous "Aunt May," who had the Children's Hour every night with still tune in and hear "Aunt May"—dear Auntie May who used to put the little folk to bed so sweetly—sing red hot songs that make Dame Sophie Tucker look to her posies as "the last of the red hot mammas."

It is just impossible to imagine Harriet Lee singing in such a deep contralto that she sounds like a man. She is so entirely feminine in her speaking voice and manner. For that matter, this hoty totsy little blonde has two very distinct singing voices. So that she can switch suddenly from a manly blue song to a lady-like yodel.

Harriet has just gone through a movie test. It's a safe bet that the gabbling cinema will finally claim the little lady from the land of machine guns and Big Bill Thompson.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK October 6-12

—It Pays to Observe It

Fire Prevention Week is an occasion of Presidential Proclamation—the Governors of our States also proclaim it. These are indications of its importance and significance to the public.

Communities which have adequately and intelligently observed Fire Prevention Week have profited by substantial reductions in the amount and number of fire losses occurring within that week, and the weeks immediately following.

650 Cities Have Year-round Program

Under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, 650 cities are competing in continuous programs of fire prevention and protection. In these cities Fire Prevention Week is an occasion for a fresh yearly start.

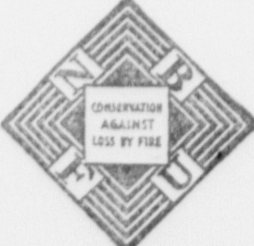

Chambers of Commerce and similar bodies realize that the prevention of destruction by fire of an existing industrial plant is just as important as the winning of a new enterprise for the community.

When fire puts men out of work they frequently leave the city or become a community problem such as arises in any locality lacking employment opportunity.

A Comprehensive Program

The unusual facilities and information which the Stock Fire Insurance companies provide have been extensively used in such work and are constantly available to any individual, organization or community.

Comprehensive and intelligent programs of fire prevention and protection have been important factors in the reduction of the National Fire Waste and in making communities safer. This information may be obtained from the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

How do you choose?

EVERY time you make a purchase you make a choice. Buying a certain product may be so much a matter of habit that you don't realize you are choosing. But the fact remains that in accepting one brand of goods you are always rejecting others; and the satisfaction you get from what you buy depends on the knowledge of quality and values that guides your selection.

How do you know which bed - sheets, or which roofing material, or which radio will give you service you require? You can't personally test everything you buy and compare it with all the other products in its class. But there is a way to find out which brand fits your needs.

The people who are most successful in their buying—who achieve the highest percentage of satisfaction from the things they own and use—are those who consistently read the advertising columns, and buy consistently advertised goods.

Choosing isn't just "guessing" when you follow the guidance of the advertisements.

You can depend on advertised goods. It pays to read the advertisements.

Interesting Wedding Is Xenian's Niece Performed In East

MISS Della Lucetta Child, Rochester, N. Y., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Child, Phelps, N. Y., and Mr. Chancy Martin Stearns, Rochester, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Stearns, Washington St., Xenia, were united in marriage with a lovely single ring ceremony at the Asbury Church in Rochester, Tuesday evening, September 3 at 7 o'clock. The Rev. Mr. Cushman, pastor of the church, officiated.

A half hour of nuptial music was played at the organ preceding the ceremony and several solo numbers were sung. At the appointed hour the organist played the Lohengrin Wedding March announcing the bridal party.

The bride's maids and the ushers entered the church from the side door, marching to the altar. Mrs. Curtis Stearns (Marjorie Jones), this city, acted as a bride's maid. The bridegroom and his best man, Mr. Curtis Stearns, his brother, entered from the opposite side of the church and the minister entered from the rear of the altar.

The bride, who was very beautiful in her wedding gown of white satin covered with tulle lace, with a large lace bow at the side and a lovely veil of lace caught in cap fashion with orange blossoms, entered from the side of the church following the ring bearer and was met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man. She wore a dainty strand of crystal pearls, a gift of the bridegroom and carried an arm shower of white orchids and rose buds. Necklaces were given the bride's maids and small pocket knives were gifts from the bridegroom to the ushers.

The altar was beautifully decorated with early fall flowers taken from the flower gardens at the bride's parents' home. Palms and ferns were used in the background and the bride's table was a lovely lighted effect. Descending from the ceiling over the heads of the bride and bridegroom was a large white streamer, hanging from the edge and a large electric ball simulating the clapper.

Following the ceremony a short reception was held at the church at which time the bride and bridegroom received congratulations of the guests. A reception-dinner held at the bride's parents' home in Phelps, two miles from Rochester, followed.

The house was beautifully decorated with early fall flowers and the bell which hung in the church was removed to the house following the ceremony and was hanging over the bride's table. Only the immediate families were seated at the bride's table. There were thirty guests at the reception. A four course dinner was served.

Mrs. Child, mother of the bride, was very charming in her frock of brown georgette and wore a corsage of yellow tea roses, baby breath and fern. Mrs. Stearns, mother of the bridegroom wore a frock of blue chiffon and had a similar corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Stearns left following the reception-dinner for a two-week trip in New York City and the Bermuda Islands. Mrs. Stearns wore an attractive navy blue frock with navy blue hat and other accessories to match her traveling outfit.

Mrs. Stearns is a graduate of Rochester High School and is an accomplished flute soloist. She is in the beauty parlor business in Rochester and will continue her work for some time. She made many friends here two years ago when she made a visit to this city with Mr. Stearns at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Stearns.

Mr. Stearns is a graduate of Xenia Central High School and of the Mechanic Institute, Rochester, N. Y. He has been connected with the Stromberg Carlson Co., in Rochester, for the past six years.

Mr. and Mrs. Stearns will be at home to their many friends after September 18 at 1845 East Ave., Rochester, N. Y.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY HAS FIRST MEETING.
Mrs. H. C. Aultman, of W. Market St., was hostess to the Sara M. Stewart Missionary Society of Trinity M. E. Church at the first meeting of the season Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The meeting opened with the formal installation of the officers for the new year, the installation service being conducted by Mrs. L. A. Washburn.

Devotions were in charge of Mrs. B. F. Thomas and were followed by a cello and piano number by Misses Lois and Marjorie Stewart. The address of the evening was given by Mrs. George Street who told in a most delightful way of her visit during the summer to one of the missionary homes of the society at Cedar town, Ga. Photographs and intimate details of the lives of the children in the home made the talk, one of special interest to the society. At the close of her address a number of members who had made trips during the summer told of the most interesting places they had visited on their trip.

Following the program a social hour was enjoyed and a delicious refreshment course served.

JOINTLY CELEBRATE BIRTHDAYS SUNDAY.
Mrs. J. H. Bennington and Mrs. Clarence Reynolds of near Alpha were delightfully entertained by a group of relatives who gathered at the home of Mrs. Bennington, Sunday to remind them of their birthdays. Each family brought a well filled basket and a delicious dinner was served at noon. Those enjoying the affair were: Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Reynolds, of Springfield, Mr. and Mrs. John Schultz, Mr. and Mrs. Zack Reynolds, and Miss Lura Toms, Xenia, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Reynolds and daughters Hazel and Mildred of Alpha.

The Ladies Aid Society of the First Lutheran Church will be entertained by Mrs. John Witham, Cincinnati Ave., Wednesday afternoon at the usual time.

Mrs. Henry Weiss and Mrs. Hannah Turner will be hostesses to the Ladies Aid Society of the White Chapel M. E. Church Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. A full attendance is desired as election of officers will be held.

Mr. and Mrs. Arch Mann of California spent the past week with Mrs. Mann's uncle, Mr. J. W. Edwards and family of Washington St.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Edwards and son Jimmie, of Mich., and daughter, who has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Branch, Home Ave., they expect to remain several days. Mr. Brannen, who has been ill, continues to improve.

AT CLUB LUNCHEON.
Mrs. D. W. Cherry and Mrs. Clarence Frazer were delightful hostesses at private parties given at the Xenia Country Club, Monday, during the weekly luncheon.

Mrs. Cherry entertained with three tables of bridge which preceded the luncheon and Mrs. Frazer with two.

At the close of the games, Mrs. Alice Rutherford, and Mrs. Charles Dadds were presented prizes at Mrs. Cherry's party and Mrs. George Graham and Mrs. Lawrence Landaker at Mrs. Frazer's tables.

There were forty members present for the luncheon and several members played golf following.

The committee in charge was composed of Mrs. Crawford Craig, chairman, Mrs. R. J. Kelly, Mrs. Findley M. Torrence, Mrs. James Wilson III, and Miss Doris Flynn.

MISS LYON SPEAKS BEFORE RUTH GUILD.
Miss Emma Lyon, secretary of the joint Red Cross Chapter and Social Service League delivered the address of the evening at the meeting of the Ruth Guild of the Presbyterian Church, at 6 o'clock Monday evening, at the church, County. She told of her work in Greene County.

The meeting opened with a covered dish supper served in the basement of the church followed by a short business session. Mrs. Paul D. Espey opened the meeting with the reading of devotions.

Mrs. James Wilson III was in charge of the program. The subject of the evening was "At Our Doorstep."

There were several guests present for the meeting.

Officers will be elected by Xenia Council, No. 1801, Knights of Columbus, at a meeting Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The meeting was postponed from the regular meeting date last week. Luncheon will be served following the meeting.

Orient Hill P.T.A. held its first regular meeting at the school at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. The meeting consisted of a short business session at which time the committees for the coming year were appointed.

Miss Margaret Neeld, N. Galloway St., will leave Thursday for Oberlin where she will enter Oberlin College for her first year.

South Side W. C. T. U. will meet at the home of Mrs. C. S. McDaniel, Upper Belbrook Pike, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The regular monthly meeting of the W. H. O. Class of the United Brethren Church which was to have been held Thursday evening, has been postponed until a later date.

Mr. and Mrs. James McCurran, W. Second St., are announcing the birth of daughter, Monday evening at McClellan Hospital. They have named the baby Betsy Ann.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Small, Columbus, are spending a few days here with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Harner and Mrs. Minnie Heaton.

Mrs. Martha Cavanaugh, this city, is spending a few days at the National Mineral Springs Hotel, Martinsville, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Clark, New York, arrived here Sunday to be guests for a week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James McCurran, W. Second St.

LUTHERANS EXPECT TO ATTEND ANNUAL RALLY NEXT SUNDAY
Arresting the progress of a summer relapse in church and Sunday School attendance, Lutherans will assemble for what is known as the Fourth Annual Lutheran Rally Sunday, September 15, at the Miami Valley Chautauqua grounds.

An interesting and reverent program of three meetings has been prepared. These include Sunday School at 9:30, church service at 10:45, and an afternoon service at 2:45.

Some of the outstanding persons taking an active part in the program are: Rev. R. E. Golladay, D. D., Columbus, who will address the afternoon meeting on the subject, "Do You Know Your Catechism?"

"Jesus Inspecting the Church," will be the subject of a sermon to be delivered at the morning service by the Rev. W. M. Brandt, German, town. Others listed on the program include Dr. W. L. Spielman, Miamisburg; Rev. H. C. TerVehn, West Carrollton; Rev. R. A. Albert, Miamisburg; and Rev. C. B. A. Stacey, Franklin.

Annual meetings such as this have been very popular in the Lutheran church, and have met with marked success. These meetings stimulate all church organizations including the Sunday School, Church services, Luther League, Brotherhood, Ladies Aid, and other organizations connected with the Lutheran church. According to the Rev. Adrian G. Lebold, pastor of the First Lutheran Church of this city, this will be the largest and most elaborate affair of its kind ever to be held in this section of the state. Many Lutherans of Xenia and vicinity are expecting to be in attendance, Sunday.

FINED ON CHARGE OF HAVING LIQUOR
Pleading guilty to a charge of possessing whiskey, Kyle P. Hancock, Jamestown, was fined $100 and costs by Judge Harry G. Gram in the Clark County Probate Court Monday. The minimum fine was imposed upon the recommendation of William P. Bevirt, assistant prosecuting attorney.

Hancock and a Springfield woman were found in an auto on the Burnett Road, in the southern part of Clark County shortly after midnight last Friday by Road Patrolman William H. Kettlelake, who reported that he broke up a road-side petting party.

A search of the machine disclosed a portion of a pint of Mountain Ridge, alleged bonded whiskey, and several flasks of cordial. The woman was later released from custody.

WILLIAM F. HITE REMOVED BY DEATH
William F. Hite, 82, passed away at 9:30 o'clock Monday evening following an extended illness. He had been in ill health since last January and his condition became serious four weeks ago.

Mr. Hite was born in Greene County August 24, 1847 and spent all his life here. He was a painter and paper-hanger for a number of years.

He is survived by one brother, George of New Burlington.

Funeral services will be held at Xenia's funeral parlors, Tuesday night with burial in Woodland Cemetery. Friends may call at Neeld's anytime Wednesday afternoon or evening.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES
The gymnasium and teacher's dining room floors have been resurfaced during the summer vacation months. The floors were in poor condition from several years usage and school authorities decided it was advisable to have them refinished.

Coach Walter Wilson has mapped out a system by which he hopes to keep the football players from walking on the gym floor with their football shoes on. This plan, if successful, will save quite a bit of wear and tear on the floor, thus keeping it in first-class condition for the basketball season.

The boys now enter the dressing rooms through a door from the lower corridor and do not enter the gymnasium at all. They leave the dressing rooms through a back door.

LUNCHEON CLUBS PLANNING SHOW HERE
Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs are jointly sponsoring an entertainment at the Opera House Thursday evening, September 26, to obtain funds to discharge obligations jointly assumed by the clubs.

De Jen, mystifier, has been booked to present "Counterfeit Miracles" and Kiwanis will be given tickets to sell at the meeting of the Elks' Club Tuesday evening. The program Tuesday evening will be in charge of E. H. Heathman and L. M. Morton.

ARRESTED IN DAYTON
Charged with failure to return an automobile he had rented, Arthur Graham, said to be a resident of near Xenia, was bound over to the Montgomery County grand jury under bond of $1,500 in Dayton Saturday.

DOG SUFFERS HEART-BREAK
Because Mate Is Accidentally Hung, Animal Apparently Tries Suicide.
"Bud," a male German police dog which Dr. Frank M. Chambliss raised from a pup, is dying—not from a fatal injury or an incurable disease—but from a broken heart.

Dr. Chambliss a few years ago obtained two German police dogs while they were in their infancy. One was a male and the other a female. He kept them at his cottage north of Old Town, naming them "Dora" and "Bud."

The female at first gained the nickname of "Dumb Dora" because of her apparent lack of intelligence, but eventually she became the smarter of the two. The dogs developed a brother and sister affection for each other.

Recently their owner built boxes about six feet off the ground in which the pets were kept chained at night.

Saturday noon when Dr. Chambliss went to the cottage he found "Dora" had loosened her chain, fallen out of the box and hung herself.

The death of "Dora" transformed the usually lively "Bud" into a lifeless animal with apparently nothing to live for.

Since Saturday noon "Bud" has laid stretched out on the spot where Dora lay when she was cut down. "Bud" has refused to eat or drink since that time and is slowly but surely starving himself to death.

Dr. Chambliss has experimented along every possible line in an effort to persuade the dog to take nourishment but to no avail. "Bud" has refused every delicacy given him and will not move from the last resting place of "Dora."

Dr. Chambliss has heard of rare instances of a dog's sympathy for another but has been unable to determine what is to be done to save "Bud's" life.

STUDENTS FROM MANY STATES ENROLL AT ANTIOCH COLLEGE
Registration of old students and the administration of group tests to new students marked the beginning of another year's work at Antioch College Monday.

A majority of the students arrived in Yellow Springs Saturday from their homes and cooperative jobs which they have held under the Antioch plan during the summer in many states. That Antioch students are attracted from a wide-spread geographical area is increasingly evident this year. Ohio is seriously pressed to maintain first place in the number of new students sent to Antioch.

New York state is the chief competitor. The Empire State has sent thirty-three new students to the college, compared to thirty-seven from Ohio. Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Michigan follow closely in supplying new Antioch students, while the far western state of California ranks sixth, sending eleven new students this year.

Under the Antioch plan, only about half of the college's population registers at this time. These are the students belonging to Division A and Division C. After five weeks Division A students will leave the campus for their cooperative work in business and industry, taking the places of Division B students, who will then come to the college to begin the academic side of their year's work.

UNVEIL MONUMENT TO ANTHONY WAYNE
COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 10.—Four hundred invitations to the official unveiling of the Anthony Wayne monument at Sallen Timbers state park, near Toledo, next Saturday, have been sent out by the Ohio Archaeological and Historical Society.

The monument is the work of Bruce Wilder Saville, New York sculptor. It is to be unveiled on the battlefield of Fallen Timbers where "Mad Anthony" Wayne won a victory over the Indians on Aug. 20, 1794. Cost of the monument was $14,750.

Miss Imogene Van Camp, descendant of William Sloan, a bugler in Wayne's army, will unveil the monument.

Secretary of War Humes W. Good is scheduled to speak at the dinner at Commodore Perry Hotel, Toledo, concluding the ceremonies.

WRONG TOWNSHIP
Carl McKinney is a candidate for trustee of Sugarcreek Twp., at the November 5 election and not for trustee of Spring Valley Twp., according to an announcement made Tuesday by R. E. Dunkel, clerk of the election board, who said a mix-up in tabulation of his nominating petition led to the incorrect classification of his candidacy.

WHEN A CHILD IS FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET
Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessors, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

AULTMAN INVITED TO BECOME HEAD OF NEW HIGHWAY GROUP
Prof. H. C. Aultman, county superintendent of schools and vice-president of the Greene County Historical Society, has under consideration an invitation to accept the presidency of The Bulkington Xenia State Highway Association, which has been brought into existence in an effort to obtain a state and national highway extending from Xenia through Clermont County to the Ohio River.

At the same time the organization desires to arouse interest in the history of the counties through which it passes which will draw thousands of tourists to this part of Ohio.

Mr. Aultman was nominated for the presidency of the association by Dr. W. A. Galloway, Xenia historian and president of the county historical society, and the invitation to head the organization came in the form of a letter received from Mrs. H. Anna Quinby, Columbus attorney.

Prof. Aultman declared he was reluctant to accept the offer because of the pressure of his duties in connection with the operation of the county school system and because his health is not sufficiently good to assume the responsibility of much additional routine work that being held of the association would probably entail.

Petitions seeking establishment of the state and national highway are to be presented to Governor Myers Y. Cooper and State Highway Director Robert Waid about Sept. 28.

Gov. and Mrs. Cooper will be in Xenia September 21 for dedication exercises for the new hospital at the O. S. and S. O. Home and Dr. Galloway has been requested to arrange for some local organization interested in the proposed road to have the governor guest at luncheon while he is in this city.

The governor understands that Clinton and Clermont Counties want the proposed road and the organization wishes to satisfy him that Xenia and Greene County are also in favor of the plan.

The highway in question was made a state road February 4, 1897 and is sixty-six feet wide. It was an old buffalo path to salt licks in Kentucky, then became a warriors' trail for Indians.

It was used by Daniel Boone to escape from the Indians in 1778 and was first improved by Gen. Mac Anthony Wayne when fighting the Indians in Ohio in 1793-94. William Hunter drove a wagon from Williamsburg to Rural over this road November 1, 1798 and the government shipped supplies to Perry's fleet at Sandusky in the War of 1812. It made a way up through the woods for the settlers going to their new homes, after the treaty with the Indians.

More than 1,000 slaves escaped North to freedom over this road before the Civil War. The road begins at Rural on the Ohio River, goes due north through or near Felicity, Bethel, Williamsburg, Marietta, and ends at Xenia.

"Wonderful Is Konjola", Says Happy Lady

Suffered Five Years—Then Master Medicine Routed Severe Complications

"Konjola is the first and only medicine that brought me relief from five years suffering," said Mrs. Nettie A. Patton, Wade St., Ashtabula, Ohio. "My stomach was in a dreadful condition and it was hard for me to eat a decent meal because of the indigestion pains and gas bloating that were sure to follow. Rheumatism settled in my limbs and joints of my arms and fingers. I was confined to my bed for days at a time.

"After eight weeks—just eight bottles of Konjola—I was well; freed of all my ailments. Konjola restored my digestion and drove the rheumatism from my body. I can hardly believe I am the same person. Nothing merits of Konjola—it is wonderful!"

Interesting Wedding Is Performed In East

MISS Della Lucretia Child, Rochester, N. Y., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Child, Phelps, N. Y., and Mr. Chancey Martin Stearns, Rochester, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Stearns, Washington St., Xenia, were united in marriage with a lovely single ring ceremony at the Asbury Church in Rochester, Tuesday evening, September 3 at 7 o'clock. The Rev. Mr. Cushman, pastor of the church, officiated.

A half hour of nuptial music was played at the organ preceding the ceremony and several solo numbers were sung. At the appointed hour the organist played the Lohengrin Wedding March announcing the bridal party.

The bride's maid and the ushers entered the church from the side door, marching to the altar. Mrs.

AUXILIARY MEETS AT CHURCH MONDAY

Mrs. William Thomas gave a splendid address on Marcy Center in Chicago, where she visited in July, at the first regular meeting of the Clara Allen Auxiliary of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the First M. E. Church, Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

A covered dish supper preceded the program and was held in the basement of the church. There were about thirty-five members present.

Mrs. A. C. Turrell gave a talk concerning the convention which was held in Columbus recently.

The meeting was opened by the reading of devotion by Mrs. Edward Wood. During the business session the newly elected officers were installed: Mrs. F. C. Orr, as president; Mrs. Roy Spahr as recording secretary and Mrs. C. Landaker as treasurer. These officers were elected to take office last June.

The hostess committee was composed of the following: Mrs. Roy Spahr, Mrs. Charles A. Bone, Mrs. George Geyer, Mrs. O. W. Cole, Mrs. Elton Smith, Miss Mina St. John, Mrs. John Baldwin, Mrs. Orin Ledbetter and Miss Lorena Paulin.

PLANS MADE FOR CENTRAL P. T. A. MEET

The executive committee of the Central High P. T. A. met at the home of the president, Mrs. Austin M. Patterson, N. King St., Monday afternoon and made plans for the first meeting of the year. This is in the form of a get-together meeting when the mothers of the seventh-graders will be welcomed into the circle. It will be held in the cafeteria at the high school, Monday, Sept. 16 at 3:15 p. m.

At this time delegates will be chosen to attend the state conference of the Ohio Parent-Teachers Association to be held at Springfield, October 9, 10 and 11.

It was decided at the meeting that dues for the year will be 50 cents which will be accepted by either the secretary or treasurer. A good attendance is desired at the September meeting and all mothers of Central High students are invited to be present.

SPRING HILL P. T. A. HEARS SUPERINTENDENT.

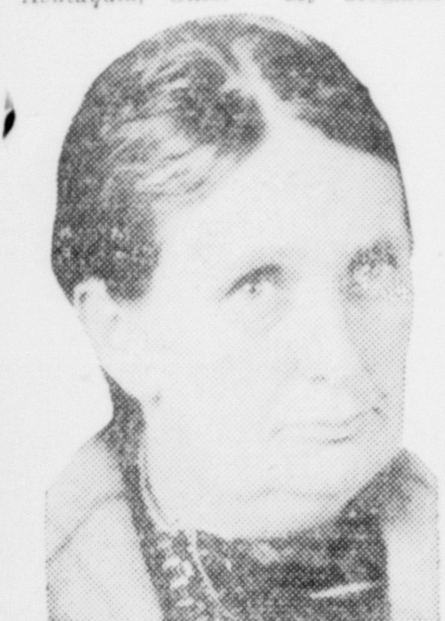

Mr. Louis Hamerle, superintendent of schools, delivered a splendid address to members of the Spring Hill P. T. A. which met at the school Monday afternoon. Mr. Hamerle talked on the district enumeration of schools and the possibilities of radio in the schools. He also talked of the relationship of the P. T. A. to the Social Service League and American Red Cross.

Following the address a short business session was held at which time a social to be held at the school Friday, September 13 at 6:30 o'clock was arranged. If weather conditions permit the social will be held on the lawn and if not it will be held in the building. Refreshments will be served all evening.

LUTHERANS EXPECT TO ATTEND ANNUAL RALLY NEXT SUNDAY

Arresting the progress of a summer relapse in church and Sunday School attendance, Lutherans within a fifty mile radius of Dayton will assemble for what is known as the Fourth Annual Lutheran Rally Sunday, September 15, at the Miami Valley Chautauqua grounds.

An interesting and reverent program of three meetings has been prepared. These include Sunday School at 9:30, church service at 10:45, and an afternoon service at 2:45.

Some of the outstanding persons taking an active part in the program are: Rev. R. E. Golladay, D. D., Columbus, who will address the afternoon meeting on the subject, "Do You Know Your Catechism?"

"Jesus Inspecting the Church," will be the subject of a sermon to be delivered at the morning service by the Rev. W. M. Brandt, Germantown. Others listed on the program include Dr. W. L. Spielman, Miami; Rev. H. C. TerVehn, West Carrollton; Rev. R. A. Albert, Miami; and Rev. C. B. A. Stacey, Franklin.

Annual meetings such as this have been very popular in the Lutheran church, and have met with marked success. These meetings stimulate all church organizations including the Sunday School, Church services, Luther League, Brotherhood, Ladies Aid, and other organizations connected with the Lutheran church.

According to the Rev. Adrian G. Lebold, pastor of the First Lutheran Church of this city, this will be the largest and most elaborate affair of its kind ever to be held in this section of the state.

Many Lutherans of Xenia and vicinity are expecting to be in attendance, Sunday.

FINED ON CHARGE OF HAVING LIQUOR

Pleading guilty to a charge of possessing whiskey, Kyle P. Hancock, Jamestown, was fined $100 and costs by Judge Harry G. Gram in the Clark County Probate Court Monday. The minimum fine was imposed upon the recommendation of William P. Beville, assistant prosecuting attorney.

Hancock and a Springfield woman were found in an auto on the Burnet Road in the southern part of Clark County shortly after midnight last Friday by Road Patrolman William H. Kettleback, who reported that he broke up a road-side petting party.

A search of the machine disclosed a portion of a pint of Mountain Ridge, alleged bonded whiskey, and several flasks of cordial. The woman was later released from custody.

WILLIAM F. HITE REMOVED BY DEATH

William F. Hite, 82, passed away at 9:30 o'clock Monday evening following an extended illness. He had been in ill health since last January and his condition became serious four weeks ago.

Mr. Hite was born in Greene County August 24, 1847 and spent all his life here. He was a painter and paper-hanger for a number of years.

He is survived by one brother, George of New Lebanon, and three daughters. Funeral services will be held at Neeld's funeral parlors at 2 o'clock Thursday with burial in Woodland Cemetery. Friends may call at Neeld's anytime Wednesday afternoon or evening.

DOG SUFFERS HEART-BREAK Because Mate Is Accidentally Hung, Animal Apparently Tries Suicide.

"Bud," a male German police dog which Dr. Frank M. Chambliss raised from a pup, is dying—not from a fatal injury or an incurable disease—but from a broken heart.

Chambliss a few years ago obtained two German police dogs while they were in their infancy. One was a male and the other a female. He kept them at his cottage north of Old Town, naming them "Dora" and "Bud."

The female at first gained the nickname of "Dumb Dora" because of her apparent lack of intelligence, but eventually she became the smarter of the two. The dogs developed a brother and sister affection for each other.

Recently their owner built boxes about six feet off the ground in which the pets were kept chained at night.

Saturday noon when Dr. Chambliss went to the cottage he found "Dora" had loosened her chain, fallen out of the box and hung herself.

The death of "Dora" transformed the usually lively "Bud" into a lifeless animal with apparently nothing to live for.

Since Saturday noon "Bud" has laid stretched out on the spot where Dora lay when she was cut down. "Bud" has refused to eat or drink since that time and is slowly but surely starving himself to death.

Dr. Chambliss has experimented along every possible line in an effort to persuade the dog to take nourishment but to no avail. "Bud" has refused every delicacy given him and will not move from the last resting place of "Dora."

Dr. Chambliss has heard of rare instances of a dog's sympathy for another but has been unable to determine what is to be done to save "Bud's" life.

STUDENTS FROM MANY STATES ENROLL AT ANTIOCH COLLEGE

Registration of old students and the administration of group tests to new students marked the beginning of another year's work at Antioch College Monday.

A majority of the students arrived in Yellow Springs Saturday from their homes and cooperative jobs which they have held under the Antioch plan during the summer in many states. That Antioch students are attracted from a wide spread geographical area is increasingly evident this year.

Ohio is seriously assessed as maintaining first place in the number of new students sent to Antioch. New York state is the chief competitor. The Empire State has sent thirty-three new students to the college, compared to thirty-seven from Ohio.

Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Michigan follow closely in supplying new Antioch students, while the far western state of California ranks sixth, sending eleven new students this year.

Under the Antioch plan, only about half of the college population registers at this time. These are the students belonging to Division A and Division C. After five weeks Division A students will leave the campus for their cooperative work in business and industry, taking the places of Division B students, who will then come to the college to begin the academic side of their year's work.

Sunday at noon a picnic lunch was served in the college dining room to the students and faculty members, giving them their first opportunity to mingle as a group. At 5 o'clock President Morgan addressed them in the first service of the year. At this service, which took place in Kelly Hall, Mr. Morgan made a plea for fine living. Urging the importance of a purposive life, he warned the students against the type of criticism which only serves to break down existing standards. The enduring principles of fine living, he pointed out, are not the property of any particular creed or group, but are the common heritage of all.

In the evening the freshmen and new students were the guests of various faculty members, receiving their first introduction into the more intimate aspects of Antioch life. This year the Antioch advising system has been extended so that separate faculty advisers are provided for freshmen, in the hope that a still closer contact with them may be established, and that a better chance for advice and counsel may be afforded the new student as he faces the difficult problems of college life.

Monday evening, all Antioch students, old and new, together with the members of the faculty and their wives, met together in the new gymnasium for the first general social affair of the year. This "mixer," as it is called, has become an annual event at the college.

New members of the Antioch community have been aided in their introduction to the college by a new edition of the "A" Book, a student publication of which Freeman Champney was this year's editor. Included in the new handbook are some decorative maps of the village of Yellow Springs and the country around Springfield, Dayton, and Xenia, showing various roads, footpaths, and points of interest. "The Antiochian," Antioch College weekly student paper, also made its first appearance of the year in connection with registration.

An additional appointment to the Antioch faculty has been announced, in the person of J. W. H. Aldred, who will be assistant professor of chemistry. Professor Aldred comes from the University of Indiana. He received his doctor of philosophy degree from that institution.

Miss Deryl Anthony Clark, who has been assistant registrar at Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C., has been appointed secretary to the president. She takes the place of Miss Mildred Hawthurst, who has resigned to take a position in New York. Miss Clark received her bachelor of science degree from Georgia State College for Women, Milledgeville, Ga., and her master of arts degree from Emory University, Emory, Ga.

AULTMAN INVITED TO BECOME HEAD OF NEW HIGHWAY GROUP

Prof. H. C. Aultman, county superintendent of schools and vice-president of the Greene County Historical Society, has under consideration an invitation to accept the presidency of The Bullskin Xenia State Highway Association, which has been brought into existence in an effort to obtain a state and national highway extending from Xenia through Clermont County to the Ohio River.

At the same time the organization desires to arouse interest in the history of the counties through which it passes, which will draw thousands of tourists to this part of Ohio.

Mr. Aultman was nominated for the presidency of the association by Dr. W. A. Galloway, Xenia historian and president of the county historical society, and the invitation to head the organization came in the form of a letter received from Mrs. H. Anna Quinby, Columbus attorney.

Prof. Aultman declared he was reluctant to accept the offer because of the pressure of his duties in connection with the operation of the county school system and because his health is not sufficiently good to assume the responsibility of much additional routine work that being head of the association would probably entail.

Petitions seeking establishment of the state and national highway are to be presented to Governor Myers Y. Cooper and State Highway Director Robert Wald about Sept. 28.

Gov. and Mrs. Cooper will be in Xenia September 21 for dedication exercises for the new hospital at the O. S. and S. O. Home and Dr. Galloway has been requested to arrange for some local organization interested in the proposed road to have the governor guest at luncheon while he is in this city.

The governor understands that Clinton and Clermont Counties want the proposed road and the organization wishes to satisfy him that Xenia and Greene County are also in favor of the plan.

The highway in question was a state road February 4, 1807 and is sixty-six feet wide. It was an old buffalo path to salt licks in Kentucky, then became a warriors' trail for Indians.

It was used by Daniel Boone to escape from the Indians in 1778 and was first improved by Gen. Mad Anthony Wayne when fighting Indians in Ohio in 1793-94. William Hunter drove a wagon over this road November 1, 1798 and the government shipped supplies to Perry's fleet at Sandusky in the War of 1812. It made a way up through the woods for the settlers going to their new homes, after the treaty with the Indians.

More than 1,000 slaves escaped North to freedom over this road before the Civil War. The road begins at Rural on the Ohio River, goes due north through or near Felicity, Bethel, Williamsburg, Marathon, Monterey, Newtonville, Eden, West Woodville, Blanchester, Fort Ancient, Clarksville, Waynesville, Harveysburg, New Burlington, Xenia to Old Town.

Funeral services were held in Philadelphia Saturday night after an illness of two weeks.

Mr. Collins is well known in this city having made several visits here. He was associated with his brother, E. H. Collins, in a job printing business at Philadelphia.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mildred Collins and a daughter, Ruth, Mrs. Eleanor Collins, Mrs. J. W. Ballantyne, and Mrs. O. E. Bradute all of this city are surviving cousins.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE PRECIOUS TREASURE—The kingdom of heaven is like unto treasure hid in a field; the which when a man hath found, he hideth, and for the joy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field.—Matthew 13:44.

EXHORTATION NOT PROPHECY

Speaking before the newly assembled Mexican congress, Provisional President Portes Gil asserted that the era of one-man military rule is at an end in Mexico, that the presidential elections will take place in a regular way on the third Sunday of November, and that the person chosen by the voters at that time will take office on February 5, 1930. Senor Gil denied flatly that he intends to perpetuate his own power upon any pretext whatever.

The whole record of the provisional president of Mexico supports the belief that he spoke in complete sincerity as far as his personal desire and intent are concerned. It is difficult to think, however, that he has the feeling of confidence regarding the character of the political events of the next few months which his words indicate. He knows by painful experience since he assumed his present position that the "war lords" are by no means tamed, and that the one thing which will prevent them from relapsing into their old ways will be lack of opportunity to do so.

Isn't Senor Gil's speech to be considered a plea and exhortation to his nation rather than a confident prophecy?

SADLY TYPICAL

It is distinctly unpleasant to read a report that an American passenger aboard the Graf Zeppelin on its voyage from Lakehurst to Friedrichshafen defied the very necessary rule against smoking, and endangered the dirigible and its passengers by stupid, reckless conduct. The sort of action described in the dispatch has of late, it seems, become fearfully typical of American conduct, and there is a sadly familiar ring about the remark to the effect that rules are made to be broken, which is ascribed to the offender.

It is not for nothing that the United States is called the most lawless nation on earth, and is being held up as a warning and fearful example in so-called "heathen countries" that are commencing to protect themselves against contamination by our morals and our lack of the sense of social and political obligation.

If there is any one thing that is branding us as a nation of ill-conditioned adolescents and is endangering the permanence of our status as a great free nation, it is the state of mind revealed by the action of the Zeppelin passenger. No person except an American would be guilty of such a lack of courtesy or of such a breath of engagement.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK.—In his autobiography in the Saturday Evening Post, former Governor Smith of New York tells of attending a conference at the St. Cloud hotel at Broadway and 42nd street 35 years ago, and after the meeting, standing on the corner at 11:30 p. m. waiting for a Seventh Avenue horse car. "And there wasn't a soul in sight," he says.

Even as far back as 1894 there were hotels, theatres, restaurants, chop houses, cable cars and saloons on Broadway in the vicinity of the St. Cloud hotel, to say nothing of Sun Dodgers.

It's a strange picture that, of Al Smith standing alone under the stars at 42nd street and Seventh Avenue at half past eleven, a stone's throw from the old St. Cloud hotel, listening to horse car bells and gazing at the devastated fringe of the Rialto.

SPOILING A GOOD TALE—Pollyanna, writing for an evening newspaper, tells of hurrying into the Grand Central station the other day on her way home and pausing for a drink at the soda fountain there. The clerk slapped down the sticky concoction, Pollyanna opened her purse and found to her horror she had no money. Her last nickel had gone for carfare to the station. The soda clerk, she says, took in her "wordless embarrassment" in an instant. She quotes him: "Thas'right, ma'am. Pay me next time you come by." Whereupon Pollyanna rode blithely home on her commutation ticket, her heart swelling with love for all human-kind in general, and soda clerks in particular.

A nice, sweet-scented, pink-emeraldized Sabbath school yarn. The only trouble with it is, it couldn't have happened because at the Grand Central station soda fountain you have to buy a soda check before the clerk will hand you your poison.

As our old bet used to say to The Brethren: "If you MUST fake, fake artistically!"

MURDER WOULD BE TOO SWEET

Speaking of soda fountains recalls a tragedy I witnessed last winter in a Bon Bon and Vichy-ated Drink Lazaar on 42nd street. The soda clerk had served a woman a cup of hot chocolate, topped by a generous dab of whipped cream. She took a sip, encountered the cold whipped cream and indignantly informed the clerk her drink was "iced cold." The clerk took issue and a brief but acrimonious debate ensued. "All right," said the woman, "I'll drink it, but I'll never set my foot in this place again."

She negotiated a generous gulp of the stuff to get it over with, penetrated the boiling depths below the layer of whipped cream and found herself with a mouthful of liquid chocolate hot as molten lead. Agony drove her eyeballs up into her head somewhere around the top of her nose. She sat there cack-eyed with suffering.

"Perhaps you'd like a glass of ice water?" suggested the clerk in the suave tone that only a Christian gentleman can muster.

HAVE YOU SEEN 'EM, HENRY?—A current magazine devoted to descriptions and pictures of beautiful homes lists a series of five appointed private bars in town homes and country places. The printed description under one photograph says:

"This tiny modern bar made from two wall closets, measures only three yards square. The whole room is finished in silver leaf with walls striped in blue, silver and copper color. Linoleum painted black, ivory, pink and tan covers the floor and lights are tubes of frosted glass."

With Hank Ford's expert opinion in mind that "drinking is no longer fashionable," the Manhattan-Ford who has to struggle along on synthetic gin should find the magazine description of the private bar quite comforting.

A TEST

"What makes you think she's intelligent?"

"Well," replied the Duchess, dipping a pretzel into her consommé, "she has six small dogs and not one of them is named 'Trixie!'"

THE WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

SENSE COUNTS
It's not speed or the lack of speed that is important in motor driving. It's the use of common sense and the refusal to get excited. States which have no speed laws, like Michigan, show good judgment. It's not how fast you drive, but how watchfully, how carefully, how courteously. Sense is vastly more important than miles per hour.

RULES OF THE ROAD
Let's look over Henry Ford's "rules of the road." Ford used to drive a car himself. In fact he was a rare driver. It is said he is still interested in motoring and there is a rumor he knows much about it. Courtesy comes first. Consider the rights and privileges of others. Keep your mind on your driving, and anticipate sudden emergencies. Learn the "feel" of having your car under control.

Obey all traffic and parking regulations. Keep to the right and comply with road marking and signs. Signal for stops and turns. Watch the car ahead.

Slow down at crossings, schools and dangerous places. Never pass cars on hills, curves or crossings.

Adapt your driving to road conditions—rain, ice, soft spots and ruts.

It doesn't pay to take the "right of way" too seriously.

When you drive, remember the times when you're a pedestrian.

Know the law. It was passed for your protection.

VALUE OF BRAINS

Analyze a business through and through; give credit to capital and everything else that enters. You discover that, after all, management is the main factor. Men are what you most need. James J. Hill, master railroad builder of the northwest, said: "It is ten times easier to assemble a million dollars of capital than to find the right man to manage the capital assembled."

Schwab, of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, when asked what he would do if a fire should destroy his steel properties, said: "I would not even figure these as a loss, as they could be replaced in time; but if some catastrophe should destroy the entire personnel of our organization, I would then consider myself a ruined man."

The wealth of any corporation is brain power. The "Wall Street News" points out notable successes that have been built from little capital. They are triumphs of brain power.

STRANGE

Strange how much time we are willing to give to the development of body power—and how little we are willing to give to the development of brain power!

UNITED STATES FORESTRY PROBLEM OUTLINED
By ARTHUR M. HYDE
Secretary of Agriculture

(Arthur M. Hyde was born at Princeton, Mo., July 12, 1877. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan and the State University of Iowa. From 1900 to 1915 he practiced law at Princeton, Mo. He was mayor of Princeton from 1908 to 1910. In 1915 he moved to Trenton. From 1921 to 1925 he was governor of Missouri. He was appointed secretary of agriculture by President Hoover.)

The forestry problem in Michigan is indeed a most serious one. Magnify it many times and you have the forestry problem of the United States. That problem consists in finding ways to keep one-fourth of our land area productive, to supply about 25,000,000 cubic feet of wood a year, to perpetuate industries that employ over 1,000,000 men and turn out products valued at more than $2,000,000,000 a year, to obtain the full benefit of forests in conserving soils and waters, and to preserve the important social values of forests.

One of the most important elements of the farm problem is the proper utilization of land. Our national heritage covers 1,903,000 acres. Of this 505,000,000 are classed as improved farm lands, capable of producing crops. Only about 350,000,000 acres are actually producing crops. On those 350,000,000 acres American farmers, the most efficient in the world, are annually producing vast stores of foodstuffs, which not only supply the demands of our own 120,000,000 people, but overrun domestic need into the markets of the world.

It is hardly too much to say that American farmers could, by using intensive methods on the whole 505,000,000 available acres of farm lands, double the crop. This would result in an enormous surplus, and disastrously break the price. The question of land utilization is therefore important. The threat of possible surpluses to great too handle is always present.

Bare watersheds add to our national flood menace. Reforestation should not be considered solely from the standpoint of timber supply. Great social and recreational values are involved. The waste of national resources forms an important element. Flood control is another. It is worthy of thought whether the reforestation of every capable acre of publicly owned land, and of purchase and reforestation of many privately owned submarginal lands upon our watersheds would not be a sound and practical measure of national economy.

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Very seldom have I been criticized for saying that any woman can be beautiful, for most people who think of beauty at all are intelligent enough to know the many forms and shapes that beauty takes and the many possibilities that any type of beauty has. But recently a friend of mine surprised me by contradicting the claim I have always made, a claim supported soundly by a lifetime of pertinent experience—that there is beauty in every woman, either already apparent, or latent beauty which she can develop.

"Not beauty," said the friend stubbornly. "Charm, perhaps, or attractiveness, but not beauty. That is something far more rare. Only one woman in five thousand has real beauty."

I was forced to remind my friend that there is a group of very blind people, those who "will not see" beauty even where it exists, a group she seemed lately to have joined. Soon we were involved in an earnest discussion about the essential nature of beauty.

"What is beauty?" she asked. And while I restated my claim that every woman can have external beauty of a fine, clear, smooth complexion, radiant hair and eyes and a well-groomed, graceful figure, I found myself agreeing with her that the appreciation of these beautiful ideals frequently varies with the eyes of various beholders. To some they spell beauty. To others mere charm, good looks or health. They must meet a response in the beholder's mind to mean beauty. For beauty has meant many different things to different people through the ages.

For example, Socrates interpreted beauty as essentially moral or useful. Doubtless no woman would have found favor in this wise man's eyes unless she were both strictly moral and highly useful. Cicero, another philosopher of somewhat different type, set beauty aside from any useful characteristics. For him it was characterized by dignity, charm and grace.

Plotinus defined beauty as being the supremacy of the higher over the lower of form over matter. While Plato characterized it as distinguished by measure and symmetry and as embodying the ideal. A modern dictionary defines it as an assemblage of graces or properties, or some one of them, satisfying the eye, the ear, the intellect, the aesthetic faculty or the moral sense.

George Meredith, an English writer nearer our own time, expresses his views to a beautiful woman whom some failed to find beautiful.

"Gossips count her faults; they scour a narrow chamber Where there is no window, read not heaven or her.

"When she was a tiny, one aged woman quavers, 'Pluck my heart and leads me by the ear.' Faults she had once as she learnt to run and tumbled; Faults of feature, some see, beauty not complete. Yet, good goddess, beauty that makes holy Earth and air may have faults from head to feet."

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—A super-sluggish is not necessarily a brainy fighter, in the prize ring.

Still, he is exciting to watch. Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa furnishes the finest exhibition of pure slugging among all the so-called progressives in congress.

He has no science. The most inexperienced spectator can tell in a minute that he lacks the headpiece of Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, for instance, the champion of the whole progressive outfit.

Plenty of senators, progressive and otherwise, can run circles all around the Iowan—for points. However, Brookhart certainly does waste in and fight.

When the gong sounds, the Hawkeye senator bounces from his corner as if he were on springs, already letting loose a perfect hurricane of hooks, jabs, swings, up-purcuts and miscellaneous wallops even as he flies through the air.

Naturally any experienced antagonist, seeing him coming, gets out of the way, frequently side-swiping the Iowan as he hurtles by.

Much Brookhart cares for that! He can "take it," too.

To watch Senator Norris in action is an education. He also has a knockout in each fist, but he wastes none of them. Every time he strikes, he lands, instead of flailing the atmosphere eight or nine times out of ten, like the fighting Iowan. Meanwhile he sees to it that his opponent never hits him.

Brookhart has no notion of self-defense. He requires none. His skill is too hard to fracture, and the rest of him seems to be made of vulcanized India rubber.

Brookhart starts it, the referee, and all hands who like nice, clean fighting, will jump on him and try to smother him, if they can. Which probably will make it worse than ever. He loves a free-for-all.

MENU HINT

BREAKFAST
Oranges Coffee
Whole Wheat Bread Marmalade
LUNCHEON
Peanut Butter-Onion Sandwiches
Potato Chips Milk
Sliced Peaches Cookies

DINNER

Pan-Broiled Steak
Browned Potatoes
Creamed Carrots
Fresh Tomato Salad
Cocoanut Custard Wafers
Milk Tea
This menu will feed four. The food may be served at camp as well as at home, if you are among the lucky who week-end at camp through September and October.

Today's Recipes

Tomato Salad—Dice medium-sized tomato on head lettuce, remove center of tomato and mix with mayonnaise and refill.

Pan-Broiled Steak and Potatoes—Have a skillet hot, add steak and brown on both sides, slightly add raw cubed potatoes and cover closely for 15 or 20 minutes until potatoes are soft and browned. Season and remove to platter with potatoes surrounding the steak.

Cocoanut Custard—Take one-half cup of prepared cocoanut dessert, one-half cup sugar and one-half cup water. Stir till smooth. Add two cups of milk and cook over slow fire till thick. This is delicious with a few bananas sliced in.

SUGGESTIONS

Connecting Electric Table Lamp
As long as you are content to confine all your lamps to a strip of territory relatively close to the wall the problem of connecting them is comparatively simple. But if you want to place a lamp on a table somewhere near the center of the room, then you are apt to run into difficulties unless you have discovered at least one of the three approved methods of dealing with this situation.

The first method is to have an outlet put in the floor under the table. The second is to have an outlet placed on the under side of the table itself, and the third is to run flat, rubber covered wire under the rug from the lamp to the nearest wall outlet.

So popular is method three becoming that you can now purchase lengths of this flat cord all equipped with a standard plug on one end to go into the outlet and a separable screw socket on the other end to be connected with the lamp's plug. If none of the ready-to-use sets come in the right lengths it is a simple business to make your own extension sets.

To pass the wire through the rug without damaging the rug you can either have eyelets put in it, or by gently parting the strands of the rug, slip the electric cord through. Needless to say, before attempting this it is necessary to detach the connecting device on the end of the wire.

Thy name, O Lord, endureth forever, and thy memorial, O Lord, throughout all generations.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

Gaining Weight

"Dear Doctor: Recently the specialist to whom I take my babies, changed the food to be used in the milk for my seven-month-old, to a wheat-germ sugar which is especially rich in vitamin B. You could not believe such a sudden change possible! The baby eats and eats, all she is supposed to, and a few ounces of milk extra a day. She is beginning to stand, although I try to keep her from it, and is gaining much faster than the weekly four ounces.

"Now, if vitamin B in extra quantities will do this for a baby, why could it not for an adult? I am almost five feet tall, just 30, and weigh not quite 93 pounds. I live in the country, spend much time in the sunshine, sleep outdoors, drink a quart of whole milk each day, eat quantities of eggs, much butter and cream and have the necessary fruits and vegetables; yet I cannot gain. I average seven hours sleep, but am constantly on the go through all the days of the year. I simply cannot rest, and I hate to try to. Now what diet must I use to calm a nervous temperament? If I rest physically, I don't mentally.

"Enclosing 10 cents in coin and self-addressed stamped envelope for your pamphlet of gaining instructions. MRS. B."

It is now being realized that babies should have special foods giving the vitamin B, just as they have vitamins A and D in cod liver oil and vitamin C in orange juice.

Vitamin B is the anti-neuritic and appetite-stimulating vitamin, so it has to do with growth (as all the vitamins do, in fact). It has been found that even in the nursing babies, and especially if the mother's diet is deficient, the addition of vitamin B is necessary. This vitamin is high in the whole grains, especially in the germ and the bran, and as this sugar you speak of is made of the germ of the wheat, it is high in the vitamin B.

Vitamin B is very high in tomatoes (raw, canned or dried), alfalfa, beans, fresh cabbage, fresh spinach, yeast and yeast extracts, and the whole grains.

Those of you whose babies are thriving on their formulas so you don't want to change the sugar, can give them a little broth every day made of the yeast extracts. These can be purchased in the grocery stores under various names. One-half teaspoonful in a cup of hot water makes a nice broth. With young babies, this, of course, should be diluted still further until they are accustomed to it.

Children need a large proportion of the energy foods—breads and cereals—in the diet, and because large share of the vitamins, mineral elements and the best of the protein (building and repair food) is taken away by the refining process, the whole grain breads and cereals should be used. This applies not only to children but to adults. It is true that if the deficiencies of the refined flours and cereals are made up by the taking of liberal amounts of milk, green vegetables and fruits, they can be used. However, the average family and specially the one with limited means, is not apt to do this.

Now your problem, Mrs. B.: Perhaps you do need more vitamin B, but certainly you need more sleep and rest. You say you average only seven hours of sleep. An underweight person should have at least nine hours in bed. During the daytime you should lie down for an hour or so. You get the benefit from this even though you are active mentally, for it is the physical activities that use up the calories. If you read, read something that requires no great concentration. It would be better, of course, if you could sleep at this time; but you can't, you should rest, anyway.

It may be possible that you are taking too much milk so that you are not getting enough solid foods. How about nuts? You could take two ounces of nut meats a day—that would be 400 calories added; and you could take egg-nogs made of milk and cream and egg yolks and sugar. Gee, I wish I had gain! I sure do like nuts and egg-nogs.

The gaining and reducing pamphlet has been sent to you, and I hope that by now you have begun to profit by it.

Tomorrow: Answers to Mothers.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Vacation time is over, and jobs, schools and colleges are started on another new year. Most of us go back grudgingly, regarding the necessity. We shouldn't, should we? We don't get all the fun out of life that we can when we do.

Even when our job is not just to our liking, we can get a lot of good out of it and a lot of valuable contacts, if we choose. And, as for school and college, they may seem an awful grind, but you will forget that part in later years, and remember all the friends you made and the good times you had, or the friends you did not make and the good times you let slip. So try every day to make more friends—or rather, to be good friends—and get every bit of pleasure you can out of the fleetly flying school years to make your later—as well as your present—years glad.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I wonder if you would help me decide an important question. I am a girl of 17 years old and am in need of advice. I am expecting a young man, about 17, whom I met but once before in his own home. Would it be all right to offer him my class pin to wear when I have known him a short time? I know he would like to wear it and that he wants me to wear his class ring. But is too bashful to ask first. Please let me know soon. LUCKY."

Oh, Lucky, dear, I was away on vacation, and I am so afraid my advice will come too late. But I hope the young man spunked up enough to ask for the pin, with your encouragement, as it does seem as if he should. However, if you had to ask him it was perfectly all right, and I hope the visit was a satisfactory one.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: My girl friend is going with a man ten years older than herself. She is deeply in love with him and he is married and has a child. His wife knows who she is.

"Virginia, my girl friend is a real nice girl and was innocent as a saint and pretty before she met this man. He has a bad reputation. I have asked her why she won't give him up and go with some nice young man her own age. She says it isn't true about her going with a married man and she didn't care what people said. Virginia, can you tell me a way to have her stop going with this man?

"RAMONA." It's a pretty hopeless task, Ramona, and a thankless one. Why does she deny that she goes with a married man? It is possible that it could be mistaken about it? If it's true, could you arrange a meeting between her and the wife, and let her see the child? If she is really the sweet girl you say, she will realize that she is doing them a wrong and give him up.

The trouble is, most men who step out with other women represent to the girl that their wives don't understand them, and that they are so unhappy, the poor devils are girls think it is true and they must be the comforters.

LAST ROSE OF SUMMER: That's an odd cognomen for a young man, isn't it? Faint heart never won fair lady, you know, so if you really love the girl continue to court her until you are sure there is no hope. Only she can tell you if she loves you. Most people fall in love some time in their lives. I don't know how much truth there is in phrenology. Some people believe the bumps will tell positively what kind of character you have, others rely on the lines of the hand, and still others on handwriting. There is a little truth in all these alleged sciences, I suppose, but how much I could not say.

There is a divinity within our breast.—Ovid.

Style is the dress of thoughts.—Chesterfield.

Be commonplace and creeping, and you attain all things.—Beaumont Newhall.

Truth lies wrapped up and hidden in the depths.—Seneca.

Peter's Adventures

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

BLACK BOX AND SHINY WINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Cricket hopped down under the shade of the toadstool parasol into the sunlight.

"Are we black? Yes, we are!" they chirped, in chorus. "We are shiny, too. See how my wife's coat gleams! And isn't it fine and smooth? My coat, you see, is not as beautiful as hers, but it is not a coat to be ashamed of, either. Goodness knows, it oughtn't to be. I take good enough care of it!"

Peter had been staring at Mr. Cricket.

"Your coat looks like the cover of a box!" said he. "Your wings are so flat and fit so closely to your sides."

"They do that!" agreed Cricket. "They are musical wings, too! I sing with them."

"Well, maybe you've caught me in a fib, laddie! I guess I'll have to confess that I don't sing at all. I haven't any voice. But anyhow, I make music with my wings. Do you see those heavy ribs on my wing covers?"

Peter bent over, looked closely, and nodded. The covers of Cricket's wings were divided into little spaces that looked like so many drumheads. Across the tops of his wings ran a ridge that looked like and was almost as sharp as a file. However, Peter still was puzzled. "All that I see still doesn't mean a single thing to me. I don't understand how you can make music with them."

"Then listen, my boy, and you shall hear!" chirped Mr. Cricket, delighted with the chance to show off. "Only, I warn you! You must watch me very, very carefully, or you'll never know how it is done. You'll think I'm a magician who is only fooling you!"

"What?" "Why, that's ridiculous!" "You couldn't!" Cricket gave a cricket chuckle.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

EXHORTATION NOT PROPHECY

Speaking before the newly assembled Mexican congress, Provisional President Portes Gil asserted that the era of one-man military rule is at an end in Mexico, that the presidential elections will take place in a regular way on the third Sunday of November, and that the person chosen by the voters at that time will take office on February 5, 1930. Senor Gil denied flatly that he intends to perpetuate his own power upon any pretext whatever.

The whole record of the provisional president of Mexico supports the belief that he spoke in complete sincerity as far as his personal desire and intent are concerned. It is difficult to think, however, that he has the feeling of confidence regarding the character of the political events of the next few months which his words indicate. He knows by painful experience since he assumed his present position that the "war lords" are by no means tamed, and that the one thing which will prevent them from relapsing into their old ways will be lack of opportunity to do so.

Isn't Senor Gil's speech to be considered a plea and exhortation to his nation rather than a confident prophecy?

SADLY TYPICAL

It is distinctly unpleasant to read a report that an American passenger aboard the Graf Zeppelin on its voyage from Lakehurst to Friedrichshafen defied the very necessary rule against smoking, and endangered the dirigible and its passengers by stupid, reckless conduct. The sort of action described in the dispatch has of late, it seems, become fearfully typical of American conduct, and there is a sadly familiar ring about the remark to the effect that rules are made to be broken, which is ascribed to the offender.

It is not for nothing that the United States is called the most lawless nation on earth, and is being held up as a warning and fearful example in so-called "heathen countries" that are commencing to protect themselves against contamination by our morals and our lack of the sense of social and political obligation.

If there is any one thing that is branding us as a nation of ill-conditioned adolescents and is endangering the permanence of our status as a great free nation, it is the state of mind revealed by the action of the Zeppelin passenger. No person except an American would be guilty of such a lack of courtesy or of such a breath of engagement.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK.—In his autobiography in the Saturday Evening Post, former Governor Smith of New York tells of attending a conference at the St. Cloud hotel at Broadway and 42nd street 35 years ago, and after the meeting, standing on the corner at 11:30 p. m. waiting for a Seventh Avenue horse car. "And there wasn't a soul in sight," he says.

Even as far back as 1894 there were hotels, theatres, restaurants, chop houses, cable cars and saloons on Broadway in the vicinity of the St. Cloud hotel, to say nothing of Sun Dodgers.

It's a strange picture that, of Al Smith standing alone under the stars at 42nd street, and Seventh Avenue at half past eleven, a stone's throw from the old St. Cloud hotel, listening to horse car bells and gazing at the devastated fringe of the Rialto.

SPOILING A GOOD TALE

Pollyanna, writing for an evening newspaper, tells of hurrying into the Grand Central station the other day on her way home and pausing for a drink at the soda fountain there. The clerk slapped down the sticky concoction, Pollyanna opened her purse and found to her horror she had no money. Her last nickel had gone for coffee to the station. The soda clerk, she says, took in her "wordless embarrassment" in an instant. She quotes him: "Tina! Tina! Tina! Pay me next time you come by." A nice, sweet-scented, pink-embroidered Sabbath school yarn. The only trouble with it is, it couldn't have happened because at the Grand Central station soda fountain you have to buy a soda check before the clerk will hand you your poison.

As our old bet used to say to The Brethren: "If you MUST fake, fake artistically!"

He was mayor of Princeton from 1908 to 1910. In 1915 he moved to Trenton. From 1921 to 1925 he was governor of Missouri. He was appointed secretary of agriculture by President Hoover.)

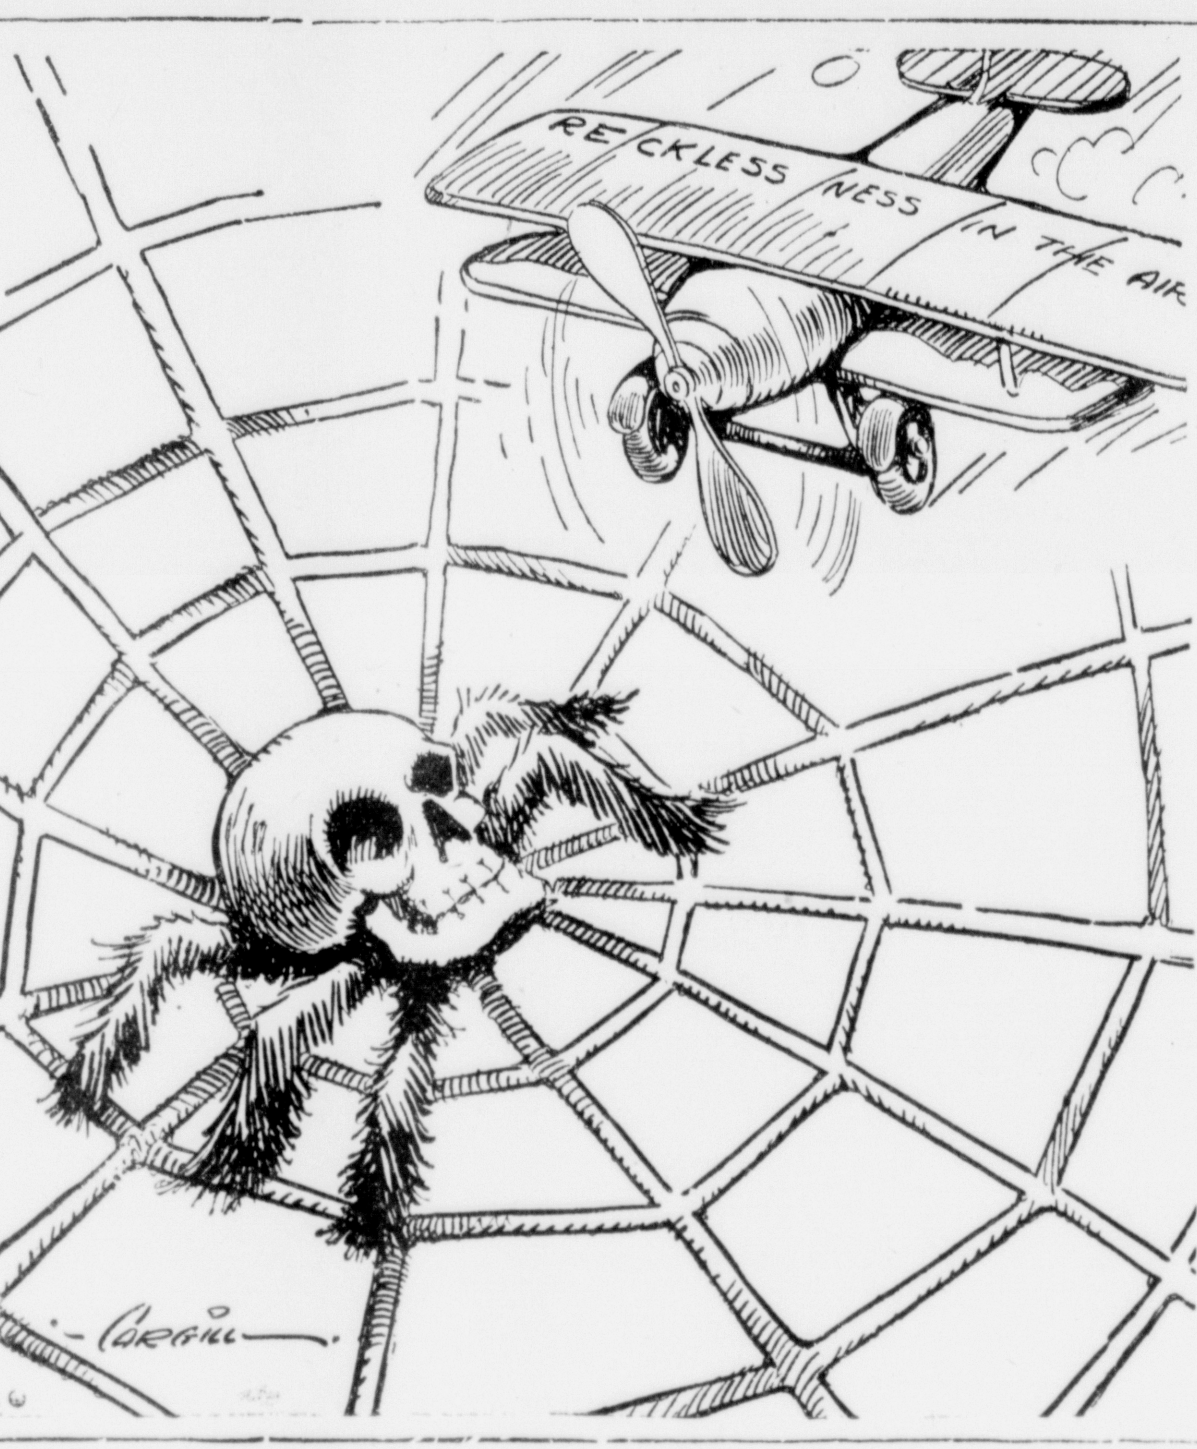

The forestry problem in Michigan is indeed a most serious one. Magnify it many times and you have the forestry problem of the United States. That problem consists in finding ways to keep one-fourth of our land area productive, to supply about 25,000,000,000 cubic feet of wood a year, to perpetuate industries that employ over 1,000,000 men and turn out products valued at more than $2,000,000,000 a year, to obtain the full benefit of forests in conserving soils and waters, and to preserve the important social values of forests.

One of the most important elements of the farm problem is the proper utilization of land. Our national heritage covers 1,903,000,000 acres. Of this 500,000,000 are classified as improved farm lands, capable of producing crops. Only about 350,000,000 acres are actually producing crops. On those 350,000,000 acres American farmers, the most efficient in the world, are annually producing vast stores of foodstuffs, which not only supply the demands of our own 120,000,000 people, but overrun domestic need into the markets of the world.

It is hardly too much to say that American farmers could, by using intensive methods on the whole 505,000,000 available acres of farm lands, double the crop. This would result in an enormous surplus, and disastrously break the price. The question of land utilization is therefore of the utmost importance. The threat of possible surplus to great too handle is always present.

Bare watersheds add to our national flood menace. Reforestation should not be considered solely from the standpoint of timber supply. Great social and recreational values are involved. The waste of national resources forms a national element. Flood control is another. It is worthy of thought whether the reforestation of every capable acre of publicly owned land, and the purchase and reforestation of many privately owned submarginal lands upon our watersheds would not be a sound and practical measure of national economy.

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Very seldom have I been criticized for saying that any woman can be beautiful for most people who think of beauty at all are intelligent enough to know the many forms and shapes that beauty takes and the many possibilities that any type of beauty has. But recently a friend of mine surprised me by contradicting the claim I have always made, a claim supported soundly by a life-time of pertinent experience—that there is beauty in every woman, either already apparent, or latent beauty which she can develop.

"Not beauty," said the friend stobornly. "Charm, perhaps, or attractiveness, but not beauty. That is something far more rare. Only one woman in five thousand has real beauty."

I was forced to remind my friend that there is a group of very blind people, those who "will not see" beauty even where it exists, a group she seemed lately to have joined. Soon we were involved in an earnest discussion about the essential nature of beauty.

"What is beauty?" she asked. And while I restated my claim that every woman can have external beauty of a fine, clear, smooth complexion, radiant hair and eyes and a well-groomed, graceful figure, I found myself agreeing with her that the appreciation of these beautiful ideals frequently varies with the eyes of various beholders. To some they spell beauty. To others mere charm, good looks or health. They must meet a response in the beholder's mind to mean beauty. For beauty has meant many different things to different people through the ages.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—A super-slugger is not necessarily a brainy fighter, in the prize ring. Still, he is exciting to watch.

Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa furnishes the finest exhibition of pure slugging among all the so-called progressives in congress.

He has no science. The most inexperienced spectator can tell in a minute that he lacks the headpiece of Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, for instance, the champion of the whole progressive outfit.

Plenty of senators, progressive and otherwise, can circle all around the Iowan—for points. However, Brookhart certainly does waste in and fight.

When the gong sounds, the Hawkeye senator bounces from his corner as if he were on springs, already letting loose a perfect hurricane of hooks, jabs, swings, uppercuts and miscellaneous wallops even as he flies through the air.

Naturally any experienced antagonist, seeing him coming, gets out of the way, frequently sidestepping the Iowan as he hurtles by. Much Brookhart cares for that! He can "take it," too.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

Gaining Weight
"Dear Doctor: Recently the specialist to whom I take my babies, changed the food to be used in the milk for my seven-month-old, to a wheat-germ sugar which is especially rich in vitamin B. You could not believe such a sudden change possible! The baby eats and eats, all she is supposed to, and a few ounces of milk extra a day. She is beginning to stand, although I try to keep her from it, and is gaining much faster than the weekly four ounces."

"Now, if vitamin B in extra quantities will do this for a baby, why could it not for an adult? I am almost five feet tall, just 30, and weigh not quite 95 pounds. I live in the country, spend much time in the sunshine, sleep outdoors, drink a quart of whole milk each day, eat quantities of eggs, much butter and cream and have the necessary fruits and vegetables; yet I cannot gain. I average seven hours sleep, but am constantly on the go through all the days of the year. I simply cannot rest, and I hate to try to. Now what diet must I use to calm a nervous temperament? If I rest physically, I don't mentally."

"Enclosing 10 cents in coin and self-addressed stamped envelope for your pamphlet of gaining instructions. MRS. B."

It is now being realized that babies should have special foods giving the vitamin B, just as they have vitamins A and D in cod liver oil and vitamin C in orange juice. Vitamin B is the anti-neuritic and appetite-stimulating vitamin, so it has to do with growth (as all the vitamins do, in fact). It has been found that even in the nursing babies, and especially if the mother's diet is deficient, the addition of vitamin B is necessary. This vitamin is high in the whole grains, especially in the germ and the bran, and as this sugar you speak of is made of the germ of the wheat, it is high in the vitamin B.

Vitamin B is very high in tomatoes (raw, canned or dried), alfalfa, beans, fresh cabbage, fresh spinach, yeast and yeast extracts, and the whole grains. Those of you whose babies are thriving on their formulas so you don't want to change the sugar, can give them a little broth every day made of the yeast extracts. These can be purchased in the grocery stores under various names. One-half teaspoonful in a cup of hot water makes a nice broth. With young babies, this, of course, should be diluted still further until they are accustomed to it.

Children need a large proportion of the energy foods—breads and cereals—in the diet, and because a large share of the vitamins, mineral elements and the best of the protein (building and repair food) is taken away by the refining process, the whole grain breads and cereals should be used. This applies not only to children but to adults. It is true that if the deficiencies of the refined flours and cereals are made up by the taking of liberal amounts of milk, green vegetables and fruits, they can be used. However, the average family and specially the one with limited means, is not apt to do this.

Now your problem, Mrs. B.: Perhaps you do need more vitamin B, but certainly you need more sleep and rest. You say you average only seven hours of sleep. An underweight person should have at least nine hours in bed. During the daytime you should lie down for an hour or so. You get the benefit from this even though you are active mentally, for it is the physical activities that use up the calories. If you read, read something that requires no great concentration. It would be better, of course, if you could sleep at this time, but you can't, you should rest, anyway.

It may be possible that you are taking too much milk so that you are not getting enough solid foods. How about nuts? You could take two ounces of nut meats a day—that would be 400 calories added; and you could take egg-nogs made of milk and cream and egg yolks and sugar. Gee, I wish I had to gain! I sure do like nuts and egg-nogs.

The gaining and reducing pamphlet has been sent to you, and I hope that by now you have begun to profit by it.

Tomorrow: Answers to Mothers.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Vacation time is over, and jobs, schools and colleges are started on another new year. Most of us go back grudgingly, regretting the necessity. We shouldn't, should we? We don't get all the fun out of life that we can when we do.

Even when our job is not just to our liking, we can get a lot of good out of it and a lot of valuable contacts, if we choose. And, as for school and college, they may seem an awful grind, but you will forget that part in later years, and remember all the friends you made and the good times you had, or the friends you did not make and the good times you did slip. So try every day to make more friends—or, rather, to be good friends—and get every bit of pleasure you can out of the fleetly flying school years to make your later—as well as your present—years glad.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I wonder if you would help me decide an important question. I am a girl of 17 years old and am in need of advice. I am expecting a young man next, also I met him but one before in his own home. Would it be all right to offer him my class pin to wear when I have known him a short time? I know he would like to wear it and that he wants me to wear his class ring, but is too bashful to ask first. Please let me know soon. LUCKY."

Oh, Lucky, dear, I was afraid my advice will come too late. But I hope the young man spunked up enough to ask for the pin, with your encouragement, as it does seem as if he should. However, if you had to ask him it was perfectly all right, and I hope the visit was a satisfactory one.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: My girl friend is going with a man ten years older than herself. She is deeply in love with him and he is married and has a child. His wife knows who she is.

"Virginia, my girl friend is a real nice girl and was innocent as a saint and pretty before she met this man. He has a bad reputation. I have asked her why she won't give him up and go with some nice young man her own age. She says it isn't true about her going with a married man and she didn't care what people said. Virginia, can you tell me a way to have her stop going with this man?

"RAMONA,"
It's a pretty hopeless task, Ramona, and a thankless one. Why does she deny that she goes with a married man? It is possible that you could be mistaken about it? If it's true, could you arrange a meeting between her and the wife, and let her see the child? If she is really the sweet girl you say, she will realize that she is doing them a wrong and give him up.

The trouble with most men who step out with other women represent to the girl that their wives don't understand them, and that they are so unhappy, the poor deluded girls think it is true and they must be the comforters.

There is a divinity within our breast.—Ovid.

Style is the dress of thoughts.—Chesterfield.

Be commonplace and creeping, and you attain all things.—Beaumont.

Peter's Adventures

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

BLACK BOX AND SHINY WINGS
Mr. and Mrs. Cricket hopped from under the shade of the toadstool parasol into the sunlight. "Are we black? Yes, we are!" they chirped in chorus. "We are shiny, too. See how my wife's coat gleams? And isn't it fine and smooth? My coat, you see, is not as beautiful as hers, but it is not a coat to be ashamed of, either. Goodness knows, it oughtn't to be. I take good enough care of it!" Peter had been staring at Mr. Cricket.

"Your coat looks like the cover of a box!" said he. "Your wings are so flat and fit so closely to your sides."

"They do that!" agreed Cricket. "They are musical wings, too! I sing with them."

"What? Why, that's ridiculous! You couldn't!" Cricket gave a cricket chuckle.

"Your name, O Lord, endureth forever; and thy memorial, O Lord, throughout all generations. For the Lord will judge his people, and he will repent himself concerning his servants.—Psalm cxxxiv 13, 14.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

Several years ago, in 1926 to be exact, Connie Mack and his Philadelphia Athletics, as usual, opened the season the favorites to win the American League bunting, but his system and his athletes in general failed to measure up, especially with the Yankees making a run-away race out of it that year. At that time it was generally admitted that Connie had been a great leader in his day, but it was also the general opinion he had reached the years when the reins should be turned over to a younger manager who better understood youth psychology and the requirements of modern-day baseball.

But the aged Connie has fooled all the prophets and after fifteen lean years of waiting for the league championship that never came to the Athletics, Mack has his first pennant since 1914 within his grasp. Much water has flowed under the bridge since Connie saw his Athletics fall to pieces in that world series fifteen years ago, but the Philadelphia manager never gave up the attempt to build another championship team and his efforts have finally been rewarded. He has emerged from the darkness of the dugout into baseball's sunlight once more.

A thumb nail sketch of Manager Connie Mack, whose team is soon to be crowned champions of the American League, follows: Age, 67. Born in Brookfield, Mass. Began professional career with Meriden, Conn., in 1884 as catcher. Caught for Washington for five seasons and was bought by Pittsburgh in 1891. In 1895 and 1896 managed the Pittsburgh club. Went to Milwaukee as manager in 1896 and when the American League expanded and took in Philadelphia he was elected to manage the Athletics. Managed six pennant winners and three world championship teams.

In a recent article on night football and its increasing popularity among colleges and a suggestion that the idea might be extended to include baseball as well, it has been called to our attention that after-dark baseball games were attempted by Comiskey, manager of the Chicago White Sox, sometime between 1913 and 1915, and proved a failure. High flies disappeared in the darkness above the park despite great batteries of floodlights and in all the experiment floundered out and has never been repeated. Anyhow, it seemed like a good idea.

Did you ever hear of barbershop football? Football has its tonorial styles as well as any other sport for members of the Princeton team in 1889 wore their hair long as a means of protection. Long hair immediately became the fashion among football players after Princeton won their championship. In 1895 the style changed for in that year Yale won the title with close-cropped heads. Until the 90s mustaches and beards were much in vogue. During his playing days the late Walter Camp sported a mustache. One of the last players to wear a lip ornament in action was Trexler, of Lafayette's championship team of 1896. An attempt to revive the custom was made by Bob Nash, tackle of the 1914 Rutgers team, but he gave it up. Better success in that direction was met by Tom Denny, of Whittier, who played through the 1915 season with, or in spite of, a beard. This football oddity is recalled by A. M. Meyard, author of "American Football; Its History and Development."

Herman Scott, colored football star at Xenia Central High School for the last three seasons, who graduated last June, has enrolled at Cedarville College and will probably be a candidate for the football team. The 175-pound player played a regular tackle position for Central High and he should prove a valuable addition to the "Yellow-Jacket" squad this season.

EIGHTEEN BABIES BORN IN AUGUST

Eighteen babies were born during the month of August according to statistics prepared by Mrs. Pearl Wittenmyer, county health nurse. Eleven girl babies and seven boy babies were born. The list follows:

HELD FOR ROBBERY

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 10.—Edward Heston, 31, was taken to Akron today to face charges of robbing a cafe there June 16. He had been led into a police trap at Chicago when he went to keep a date with his girl. Heston was identified in the police "show up" here as one of five men who robbed the Roxy Cafe at Akron of $1,864.

National Loop Leaders Will Play Off Tie

DOWNTOWNERS AND HARNESS WILL MEET THURSDAY EVENING

Post-Season Game Needed; One More Tilt In American

The Downtown Country Club and the Harness Cigars, 1928 city champs, at present tied for leadership of the National League, will play a post-season game Thursday night at 6 o'clock at Cox Field to decide the championship of this league. The winner will be the National League representative in the "world series" with the American League entry to determine the 1929 city softball championship.

In the American League the situation has become complicated as a result of action of the Softball Commission Monday night in allowing a tie game filed by the Hooven and Allison Co. earlier in the season.

The H. and A. and Post Office nines tied for the American League leadership at the conclusion of the final round of play but one of the victories achieved by the mailmen over the H. and A. this season, which was protested by the latter team, was allowed by the commission, which has ordered the game re-played Wednesday night at 6 o'clock.

The protest involved an interpretation of the rules by the umpire who officiated the game in question. An H. and A. player who entered the game after play had started, played in the outfield half an inning and had then taken his turn at bat in place of the player for whom he had substituted. He made a two-base hit but was declared out for alleged failure to report to the umpire.

The commission, in allowing the protest, decided the rules under which the game is played do not make it mandatory for a player to report to the umpire when he enters the game as a substitute.

Another protest also filed by the H. and A. was disallowed by the commission because it involved only the judgment of the umpire in making a decision and not an interpretation of the rules.

If the H. and A. defeats the Post Office Wednesday night it will be declared league champions. However, if the Post Office should win, a tie will exist for the leadership and the two teams will be required to play another game to decide the title. This makes it necessary for the postal nine to win two straight games from the H. and A. to be recognized as league champions and become eligible to participate in the city series.

All of the contending teams are impressed by the commission with the advantage of starting the play-off games promptly at 6 o'clock in order that regulation nine-inning contests may be played. Unless the game gets under way at that hour darkness will prevent the playing of nine innings, it is pointed out.

No arrangements for the city series will be made pending the playing of the post-season games.

DOWNTOWN COUNTRY CLUB WINS FROM CENTRAL TO TIE HARNESS

The Downtown Country Club wound up its season in a tie with Harness Cigars for the championship of the National League by defeating Central High School for the sixth straight time this season 6 to 5 in a postponed game Monday night at Cox Field.

Because of a delayed start and darkness, the contest was called after four and one-half innings, the minimum number to make it a regulation game.

Central High put over a two-run rally in the first half of the fifth inning and with the tying run on second and another runner on first, with two out, a fluke catch saved the situation for the Downtowners. The third out came in an unusual manner when Morton shot a liner to first. Eavey succeeded in blocking the ball and it glanced off his hand directly to Finlay at second, who caught it, thus averting a possible tie score.

The winners outthit the losers, nine to four. Finlay and Eavey each made two hits for the Downtowners. Finlay's home run with the bases empty in the fourth proved to be the winning marker.

Of the quartet of hits made by the Eucs, Morton contributed two. Frame pitched for the D. T. C. Club makes necessary a post-season game with Harness Cigars to decide the league title. Score:

XENIA PASTORS ARE RETURNED HERE BY M. E. CONFERENCE
All Greene County M. E. Churches were affected by the ministerial changes announced Monday at the closing session of the annual Ohio Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Columbus.

The Rev. W. N. Shank and the Rev. L. A. Washburn were reassigned to the pastorates of the First M. E. and Trinity M. E. Churches of Xenia, respectively. Pastors of both Xenia M. E. Churches were extended unanimous invitations to retain their local charges by the congregations of each church.

The Rev. Mr. Shank has been pastor of the First M. E. Church for three years and the Rev. Mr. Washburn has held the Trinity charge for two years.

Other assignments of pastors affecting M. E. Churches in Greene County for the coming year are as follows:
Jamestown—C. L. Beuhler, succeeding the Rev. L. D. Vesey, who was assigned to West Carrollton in the Dayton district.

Cedarville—H. C. Gunnert, Fairfield-Oborn—J. O. Young, Rowersville—Charles Lusk, New Jasper—W. N. Mantle, Spring Valley—R. W. Knoop, Yellow Springs—J. W. Patton, Old Town—Ed. Wones.

New Burlington—J. O. Kilmer, Waynesville—G. C. Dibert, Jeffersonville—O. E. Smith. The Rev. Roger J. Turrell, former Xenian, was assigned to a charge at Carey, O. in the Delaware district. Other assignments of former pastors of Greene County M. E. Churches were announced as follows: E. C. Walley, former pastor at Spring Valley, will take over the pulpit at Pandora in the Lima district; O. P. Hoffman, former pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, was assigned to Crooksville, O., in the Zanesville district; A. J. Kestle, at one time pastor of the First M. E. Church here, was assigned to the First M. E. charge at Hamilton, O. in the Dayton district.

The Rev. Jesse Swank, Dayton, O., was again assigned as superintendent of the Dayton district of the M. E. Church.

SPORTSMEN TO HOLD PICNIC WEDNESDAY
The Greene County Fish and Game Protective Association will hold its annual picnic and outing at the Keiter Sugar Farm all day Wednesday.

The program will be inaugurated at 9:30 a. m. with con races, followed immediately by clay bird shooting. Other events will include rifle target shooting, pistol shooting, running deer, revolver shooting, bait casting and horse shoe pitching contests. There will also be nail driving and guessing contests for the women.

A beautiful dinner will be served at the noon hour and the largest attendance in the history of the annual gatherings of this organization is anticipated.

TOO LUCKY!

GEORGE A. LAMPERT, N. Detroit St., is out $20 plus costs and all of his equipment because of extensive fishing at North Bay, Ontario, Can., according to news dispatches. He was found with sixty-seven fish weighing 300 pounds, just seventy-seven more pounds than he was supposed to catch. Not only that but he had no license, and that's what the fine plus costs was imposed for. Lampert was expected to return home Tuesday after a two-week's fishing trip.

WONES ORGANIZING INDEPENDENT GRID COMBINATION HERE

Xenia will probably be represented by an independent football team again this season. The eleven is being organized by LeRoy Wones and Sunday road games will probably be played during the first part of the season, it is announced.

Manager Wones announces that the team will be a salaried one, the players being paid after each game.

No name for the club has been decided upon but the squad will be composed for the most part of football men who were members of the team backed by the Lang Chevrolet Co. last year.

The opening game has already been booked for Sunday, September 29 when the local eleven plays the Tipp City Merchants at Tippecanoe City.

The Merchants did not lose a game last season and the team organized this season is said to be equally as strong.

The following players and any others interested in semi-pro football are asked to report at Kaffory's barber shop at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening for a business meeting: L. Purdon, Perrine, Beals, Davis, Bales, Leopold, McCoy, Houk, Halder, Parks, Doak, F. Smith, Seall, H. Smith, Anderson, Boxwell, Botoroff and R. Yeakley.

Bowling Scores

The 1929-30 Xenia bowling season was inaugurated Monday night when the Benrus Watch team made a clean sweep of the three games with the Red Wing Co. in the opening match in the Recreation League.

Led by Thearl White, who put together games of 223, 226 and 203 for a fine three-game total of 652, the winners displayed mid-season form and totaled 2,793 for the trio of games. The Benrus quintet spilled 935 the first game, followed up with 886 and then turned in a 959 total. J. Leachey led the losers with a 515 series. Box score:

SCHOOL PAPER WILL APPEAR THURSDAY; HAS LARGER STAFF

The first issue of the Central High "Review," school weekly will appear Thursday this week.

The "Review" is published every week by students of Xenia Central High School.

S. A. Evjen, economics teacher, for the second straight year will be faculty advisor in charge of the publication.

A complete staff for the paper has not been chosen but the personnel is expected to be completed within the next week or two.

The initial issue will be edited by class officers of the senior, junior and sophomore classes.

Under a new plan to be tried this year, a greater number of students will have an opportunity to become members of the staff. Instead of having one feature editor, a joke editor, inquisitive editor and a feature editor will be appointed.

The paper is sold for five cents a copy. Copies were distributed in the business section of the city last year and the demand for them was so great the plan will be repeated this year.

Birch Bell has been selected as sport editor, with Elwood Shaffer as his assistant. Miss Mary Hayward as circulation manager, Harold Bull as business manager and William Eichman as his assistant.

Reporters for the first issue will be Harold Bull, Jean Marshall, Hugh Espey, Minor Monroe, Birch Bell, Vernon Leinberger, Elwood Shaffer, John C. Beacham, Dorothy Need, Eileen Sayre and David Short.

Positions of editor-in-chief, feature editor, joke editor, inquisitive editor, exchange manager and assistant circulation manager have not yet been filled.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS FRAMED by Phil

Several years ago, in 1926 to be exact, Connie Mack and his Philadelphia Athletics, as usual, opened the season the favorites to win the American League bunting, but his system and his athletes again failed to measure up, especially with the Yankees making a run-away race out of it that year. At that time it was generally admitted that Connie had been a great leader in his day, but it was also the general opinion that he had reached the years when the reins should be turned over to a younger manager who better understood sports psychology and the requirements of modern-day baseball.

But the aged Connie has fooled all the prophets and after fifteen lean years of waiting for the league championship that never came to him, Mack has his first pennant since 1914 within his grasp. Much water has flowed under the bridge since Connie saw his Athletics laid to pieces in that world series fifteen years ago but the Philadelphia manager never gave up the attempt to build another championship team and his efforts have finally been rewarded. He has emerged from the darkness of the dugout into baseball's sunlight once more.

A thumb nail sketch of Manager Connie Mack, whose team is soon to be crowned champions of the American League, follows: Age, 67. Born in Brookfield, Mass. began professional career with Meriden, Conn., in 1884 as catcher. Caught for Washington for five seasons and was bought by Pittsburgh in 1891. In 1895 and 1896 managed the Pittsburgh club. Went to Milwaukee as manager in 1896 and when the American League expanded and took in Philadelphia he was elected to manage the Athletics. Managed six pennant winners and three world championship teams.

In a recent article on night football and its increasing popularity among colleges and a suggestion that the idea might be extended to include baseball as well, it has been called to our attention that after-dark baseball games were attempted by Comiskey, manager of the Chicago White Sox, sometime between 1913 and 1915, and proved a failure. High flies disappeared in the darkness above the park despite great batteries of floodlights and all in all the experiment floundered out and has never been repeated. Anyhow, it seemed like a good idea.

Did you ever hear of barbershop football? Football has its tonsorial styles as well as any other sport for members of the Princeton team in 1889 wore their hair long as a means of protection. Long hair immediately became a fashion among football players after Princeton won the championship. In 1893 the style changed for in that year Yale won the title with close-cropped heads. Until the 90s mustaches and beards were much in vogue. During his playing days the late Walter Camp sported a mustache. One of the last players to wear a lip ornament in action was Trefler, of Lafayette's championship team of 1896. An attempt to revive the custom was made by Bob Nash, tackle of the 1914 Rutgers team, but he gave it up. Better success in that direction was met by Tom Denny, of Whittier, who played through the 1915 season with, or in spite of, a beard. This football outfit is recalled by A. M. Moyand, author of "American Football: Its History and Development."

Herman Scott, colored football star at Xenia Central High School for the last three seasons, who graduated last June, has enrolled at Cedarville College and will probably be a candidate for the football team. The 175-pound player played a regular tackle position for Central High and he should prove a valuable addition to the "Yellow-Jackets" squad this season.

HELD FOR ROBBERY

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 10.—Edward Heston, 31, was taken to court today for charge of robbing a cafe there June 16. He had been led into a police trap at Chicago when he went to keep a date with his girl. Heston was identified in the police "show up" here as one of five men who robbed the Roxy Cafe at Akron of $1,864.

National Loop Leaders Will Play Off Tie

DOWNTOWNERS AND HARNESS WILL MEET THURSDAY EVENING

Post-Season Game Needed; One More Tilt In American

The Downtown Country Club and the Harness Cigars, 1928 city champs, at present tied for leadership of the National League, will play a post-season game Thursday night at 6 o'clock at Cox Field to decide the championship of this league. The winner will be the National League representative in the "world series" with the American League entry to determine the 1929 city soft-ball championship.

In the American League the situation has become complicated as a result of action of the Soft-Ball Commission Monday night in allowing a protest filed by the Hooven and Allison Co. earlier in the season.

The H. and A. and Post Office lines tied for the American League leadership at the conclusion of the final round of play but one of the victories achieved by the mailmen over the H. and A. this season, which was protested by the latter team, was allowed by the commission, which has ordered the game replayed Wednesday night at 6 o'clock.

The protest involved an interpretation of the rules by the umpire who officiated the game in question. An H. and A. player who entered the game after play had started, played in the outfield half an inning and had then taken his turn at bat in place of the player for whom he had substituted. He made a two-base hit but was declared out for alleged failure to report to the umpire.

The commission, in allowing the protest, decided the rules under which the game is played do not make it mandatory for a player to report to the umpire when he enters the game as a substitute.

Another protest also filed by the H. and A. was disallowed by the commission because it involved only the judgment of the umpire in making a decision and not an interpretation of the rules.

If the H. and A. defeats the Post Office Wednesday night it will be declared league champions. However, if the Post Office should win, a tie will exist for the leadership and the two teams will be required to play another game to decide the title. This makes it necessary for the postal nine to win two straight games from the H. and A. to be recognized as league champions and become eligible to participate in the city series.

DOWNTOWN COUNTRY CLUB WINS FROM CENTRAL TO TIE HARNESS

The Downtown Country Club wound up its season in a tie with Harness Cigars for the championship of the National League by defeating Central High School for the sixth straight time this season, 6 to 5 in a postponed game Monday night at Cox Field.

Because of a delayed start and darkness, the contest was called after four and one-half innings, the minimum number to make it a regulation game.

Central High put over a two-run rally in the first half of the fifth inning and with the tying run on second and another runner on first, with two out, a fluke catch saved the situation for the Downtowners. The third out came in an unusual manner when Morton shot a liner to first. Eavey succeeded in blocking the ball and it glanced off his hand directly to Finlay at second, who caught it, thus averting a possible tie score.

The winners outfit and Eavey, nine to four. Finlay and Eavey each made two hits for the Downtowners. Finlay's home run with the bases empty in the fourth proved to be the winning marker. Of the quartet of hits made by the Bucs, Morton contributed two.

Frame pitched for the Downtowners, striking out six batters, while Rice, on the mound for Central, fanned three batsmen.

The victory of the D. T. C. Club makes necessary a post-season game with Harness Cigars to decide the league title. Score:

XENIA PASTORS ARE RETURNED HERE BY M. E. CONFERENCE

All Greene County M. E. Churches were affected by the ministerial changes announced Monday at the closing session of the annual Ohio Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Columbus.

The Rev. W. N. Shank and the Rev. L. A. Washburn were reassigned to the pastorates of the First M. E. and Trinity M. E. Churches of Xenia, respectively. Pastors of both Xenia M. E. churches were extended unanimous invitations to retain their local charges by the congregations of each church.

The Rev. Mr. Shank has been pastor of the First M. E. Church for three years and the Rev. Mr. Washburn has held the Trinity charge for two years.

Other assignments of pastors affecting M. E. Churches in Greene County for the coming year are as follows:

Jamestown—C. L. Beuhler, succeeding the Rev. L. D. Vesey, who was assigned to West Carrollton in the Dayton district.

Cedarville—H. C. Gunnett, Fairfield—Osborn—J. O. Young, Bowersville—Charles Lusk, New Jasper—W. N. Mantle, Spring Valley—R. W. Knop, Yellow Springs—J. W. Patton, Old Town—Ed. Jones, New Burlington—J. O. Kilmer, Waynesville—G. C. Dier, Jeffersville—O. E. Smith.

The Rev. Roger J. Turrell, former Xenian, was assigned to a charge at Carey, O. in the Delaware district. Other assignments of former pastors of Greene County M. E. Churches were announced as follows: E. C. Walley, former pastor at Spring Valley, will take over the pulpit at Pandora in the Lima district; O. P. Hoffman, former pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, was assigned to Crooksville, O., in the Zanewille district; A. J. Keistle, at one time pastor of the First M. E. Church here, was assigned to the First M. E. charge at Hamilton, O. in the Dayton district.

The Rev. Jesse Swank, Dayton, O., was again assigned as superintendent of the Dayton district of the M. E. Church.

TOO LUCKY!

GEORGE A. LAMPERT, N. Detroit St., is out $20 plus costs and all of his equipment because of extensive fishing at North Bay, Ontario, Can., according to news dispatches. He was found with sixty-seven fish weighing 300 pounds, just seventy-seven more pounds than he was supposed to catch. Not only that but he had no license, and that's what the fine plus costs was imposed for. Lampert was expected to return home Tuesday after a two-week's fishing trip.

WONES ORGANIZING INDEPENDENT GRID COMBINATION HERE

Xenia will probably be represented by an independent football team again this season. The eleven is being organized by LeRoy Wones and Sunday road games will probably be played during the first part of the season, it is announced.

Manager Wones announces that the team will be a salaried one, the players being paid after each game.

No name for the club has been decided upon but the squad will be composed for the most part of football men who were members of the team backed by the Lang Chevrolet Co. last year.

The opening game has already been booked for Sunday, September 23 when the local eleven plays the Tipp City Merchants at Tippecanoe Church.

The Merchants did not lose a game last season and the team organized this season is said to be equally as strong.

The following players and others interested in semi-pro football are asked to report at Kaffey's barber shop at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening for a business meeting: L. Purdon, Perrine, Beals, Hanks, Bales, Leopold, DeCoys, Houk, Halder, Parks, Doak, F. Smith, Reall, H. Smith, Anderson, Boxwell, Botoroff and David Leaky.

Bowling Scores

The 1929-30 Xenia bowling season was inaugurated Monday night when the Benrus Watch team made a clean sweep of the three games with the Red Wing Co., in the opening match in the Recreation League.

Led by Thearl 223, who put together games of 223, 226 and 203 for a fine three-game total of 652, the winners displayed mid-season form and totalled 2,793 for the trio of games. The Benrus quintet spilled 938 the first game, followed up with 886 and then turned in a 959 total. J. Leachey led the losers with a 515 series. Box score:

SCHOOL PAPER WILL APPEAR THURSDAY; HAS LARGER STAFF

The first issue of the Central High "Review," school weekly will appear Thursday this week.

The "Review" is published every week by students of Xenia Central High School.

S. A. Evjen, economics teacher, for the second straight year will be faculty advisor in charge of the publication.

A complete staff for the paper has not been chosen but the personnel is expected to be completed within the next week or two.

The initial issue will be edited by class officers of the senior, junior and sophomore classes.

Under a new plan to be tried this year, a greater number of students will have an opportunity to become members of the staff.

Under a new plan to be tried this year, a greater number of students will have an opportunity to become members of the staff.

The paper is sold for five cents a copy. Copies were distributed in the business section of the city last year and the demand for them was so great the plan will be repeated this year.

Birch Bell has been selected as sport editor, with Elwood Shaffer as his assistant, Miss Mary Hayward as circulation manager, Harold Bull as business manager and William Eichman as his assistant.

Reporters for the first issue will be Harold Bull, Jean Marshall, Hugh Espey, Minor Monroe, Birch Bell, Merion Leinberger, Elwood Shaffer, John C. Beacham, Dorothy Neeld, Eileen Sayre and David Short.

Positions of editor-in-chief, feature editor, joke editor, investigative editor, exchange manager and assistant circulation manager have not yet been filled.

THOMAS GALLAGHER

By Central Press
Reaching his 101st birthday August 15, Thomas Gallagher desires to know whether there is any older railroad man living. He rather guesses not.

He smashed baggage on the Long Island railroad when there were cows and pigs on Broadway, New York.

There have been one or two mild changes in New York since I came here on July 4, 1842," says Gallagher, as he rubbed the fringe of white hair over his ears. "For one thing, it's easier to get here. It took me six weeks to sail here from Ireland just before the potato riots."

"Then there's the girls. That fine young thing they're pleased to call the 'flapper' nowadays is a great deal better than the girl of fifty or sixty years ago; there's as much difference between the two as chalk and cheese. The modern girl seems to be more full of life and ambition and has more desire for happiness and comfort than her grandmother had."

"Billie had said that he was a 'he-gossip,' and she had struck the nail on the head."

In his man's way he talked quite as much as Chatty did in hers. "If you MUST run around with him and the rest of that crew, why don't you make him stop talking about you in the office?" Billie asked Chatty on the second Saturday afternoon in June, when they were on their way home.

"Everybody knows that he's separated from his wife," she went on, "and you haven't any more right to let him around with him than I had to go around with George Mayhew—or than Agnes had to go out to lunch with Mr. Van. You're playing with fire, Chatty, when you fool around with him."

But Chatty just laughed at the warning.

"Oh, I guess I won't be burned," she said lightly. "And even if I wanted to stop seeing him, I couldn't do it now, Billie. I'm too crazy about him." She sighed, and her face sobered suddenly.

She was "crazy" about him in a way that she, herself, didn't understand.

There were things about him she didn't like. The way he talked about her around the office. The perfume he used on his handkerchiefs—faint, but unmistakable. The polish on his nails. The tiny comb and mirror that he carried in his coat pocket.

He was as vain as a woman about his good looks.

But then, a man as handsome as he was had a right to be vain, Chatty told herself sometimes, in the depths of her infatuation for him.

For she was infatuated with him. All day long, while she worked at her switchboard she watched to see him come into the office. Waited for him to follow her to the water cooler in the corner and take tight hold of her hand for just a second, and tell her that he couldn't wait until it was half past five.

She couldn't wait for half past five, herself, these days. Couldn't wait for the time when the two of them would climb into the bottle-green roadster and drive around town until it was dark, and then park somewhere along a dark street or in the soft, shadowy gloom of the country, along some side road or other.

That was what she had been doing every night for the past week—"playing with fire," as Billie called it.

"Are you going out tonight with your friend Dunning?" Billie asked now, as they turned into Lipton Street, shabby and dusty looking this afternoon, under the hot sunlight.

The directors were also scheduled to attend a meeting of the All-Ohio Tax League, which is supporting the proposed tax limit amendment, Tuesday morning at the Southern Hotel.

Greene County reported fifty-three industrial accidents during the month of July, according to statistics compiled by the division of safety and hygiene of the industrial commission of Ohio.

Of these, none resulted fatally, two resulted in permanent disability, seventeen caused more than seven days loss of time, six caused seven days or less and twenty-eight resulted in no loss of time.

The total number of days lost by reason of accidents was 1,051.

CHATTY—GODDESS OF GAB
By BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN," "HONEY LOU," "SALLY'S SAULDERERS," "MONEY LOVE," "LOVE BOUND," etc.

READ THIS FIRST:

Charlotte Chatterton, nicknamed Chatty, is a born gossip. Her mother, a widowed dressmaker, has one wealthy customer, Mrs. Van Nuys, and through her Chatty gets a job as switchboard operator in the Van Nuys bond house. There she meets and falls in love with David Jordan, handsome young bond salesman, and becomes jealous of his friendship with Agnes Herford, Mr. Van Nuys' secretary.

Billie Langenau, who works in the office, comes to live in the flat across the hall from where Chatty lives. Chatty's brother, Bud, goes to high school and works evenings in Ben Tomlinson's drug store. Chatty learns that he delivers gin for Ben, and begs him to stop before he is arrested, but Bud refuses to do it.

One day Chatty sees David hand a note to Agnes Herford. Jealous, she goes through Agnes' desk to look for it. It is a simple message about some bonds, but in hunting for it Chatty finds Agnes' diary, filled with the story of her love for her employer. Chatty tears some of the pages out, and sends them to Mrs. Van, and Agnes is discharged. Dave Jordan, alone, knows that Chatty is responsible, and he drops her. Winnie Talcott, the office "vamp," gets Agnes' position. Winnie gets quite chummy with Chatty, and at a party Chatty meets Bryant Dunning, a new bond salesman. Winnie shows Chatty how to paint her face and "doll up." Bryant is married, but tells Chatty he has left his wife.

Now GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXV

By the end of the first week in June everybody in the office knew that Chatty was "stepping out" with Bryant Dunning.

Not that she told it!—Oh, no, indeed!

Much as she loved to tell everything about everybody, herself included, she had far too much sense to let the little world of the Van Nuys company offices know that she was running around with a married man.

It was Bryant who let the cat out of the bag.

Billie had said that he was a "he-gossip," and she had struck the nail on the head.

In his man's way he talked quite as much as Chatty did in hers.

"If you MUST run around with him and the rest of that crew, why don't you make him stop talking about you in the office?" Billie asked Chatty on the second Saturday afternoon in June, when they were on their way home.

But then, a man as handsome as he was had a right to be vain, Chatty told herself sometimes, in the depths of her infatuation for him.

For she was infatuated with him. All day long, while she worked at her switchboard she watched to see him come into the office. Waited for him to follow her to the water cooler in the corner and take tight hold of her hand for just a second, and tell her that he couldn't wait until it was half past five.

She couldn't wait for half past five, herself, these days. Couldn't wait for the time when the two of them would climb into the bottle-green roadster and drive around town until it was dark, and then park somewhere along a dark street or in the soft, shadowy gloom of the country, along some side road or other.

That was what she had been doing every night for the past week—"playing with fire," as Billie called it.

"Are you going out tonight with your friend Dunning?" Billie asked now, as they turned into Lipton Street, shabby and dusty looking this afternoon, under the hot sunlight.

"Please promise you won't tell, Chatty!"

Chatty nodded. "I am," she said, and defiance sounded in her voice. "You haven't any objection, have you?"

"None at all," Billie answered, calmly, and then she added: "Agnes is coming over to have supper with me and Sara."

"I suppose she's dying to hear all the news of our office," remarked Chatty. "I'll bet the first thing she'll want to know will be all about Mr. Van. What a simp she was to let herself fall for a married man!"

"That's what you're doing," Billie reminded her, quietly, breaking in upon what she was saying. "You're so wild about this Dunning and the gang he runs with that you don't realize what you're doing, Chatty."

At six that night, while she was dressing to go out with Bryant, Bud came knocking at the door of her room.

He and his mother had been having their Saturday night supper in the kitchen, and his mouth was full of cold corned beef and bread and butter.

"Woman here to see you," he said, in a muffled voice, chewing as he talked. "I told her to sit down in the front room—and she's sitting there."

Pulling her kimono around her, Chatty went tiptoeing down the little hall and peeked into the room. There, on the old-fashioned sofa between the windows, sat Agnes Herford!

"Well, of all things!" Chatty exclaimed, and hurried into the room. "Agnes! Billie told me you were having supper with her. How nice of you to come in and say 'Hello' to me!"

She wasn't a bit glad to see Agnes. But she was dying to see how Agnes was taking her exile.

THOMAS GALLAGHER

By Central Press

FLUSHING, L. I. Sept. 10.—Reaching his 101st birthday August 18, Thomas Gallagher desires to know whether there is any older railroad man living. He rather guesses not.

He smashed baggage on the Long Island railroad when there were cows and pigs on Broadway, New York.

"There have been one or two mild changes in New York since I came here on July 4, 1842," says Gallagher, as he rubbed the fringe of white hair over his ears. "For one thing, it's easier to get here. It took me six weeks to sail here from Ireland just before the potato riots."

"Then there's the girls. That fine young thing they're pleased to call the 'flapper' nowadays is a great deal better than the girl of fifty or sixty years ago; there's as much difference between the two as chalk and cheese. The modern girl seems to be more full of life and ambition and has more desire for happiness and comfort than her grandmother had."

Billie had said that he was a "he-gossip," and she had struck the nail on the head.

In his man's way he talked quite as much as Chatty did in hers.

"If you MUST run around with him and the rest of that crew, why don't you make him stop talking about you in the office?" Billie asked Chatty on the second Saturday afternoon in June, when they were on their way home.

"Everybody knows that he's separated from his wife," she went on, "and you haven't any more right to run around with him than I had to go around with George Mayhew—or than Agnes had to go out to lunch with Mr. Van. You're playing with fire, Chatty, when you look around with him."

But Chatty just laughed at the warning.

"Oh, I guess I won't be burned," she said lightly. "And even if I wanted to stop seeing him, I couldn't do it now, Billie. I'm too crazy about him—"

She sighed, and her face sobered suddenly.

She was "crazy" about him in a way that she, herself, didn't understand.

There were things about him she didn't like. The way he talked about her around the office. The perfume he used on his handkerchief—faint, but unmistakable. The polish on his nails. The tiny comb and mirror that he carried in his coat pocket.

He was as vain as a woman about good looks.

But then, a man as handsome as he was had a right to be vain, Chatty told herself sometimes, in the depths of her infatuation for him.

For she was infatuated with him. All day long, while she worked at her switchboard she watched to see him come into the office. Waited for him to follow her to the water cooler in the corner and take tight hold of her hand for just a second, and tell her that he couldn't wait until it was half past five.

That was what she had been doing every night for the past week—"playing with fire," as Billie called it.

"Are you going out tonight with your friend Dunning?" Billie asked now, as they turned into Lupton Street, shabby and dusty looking this afternoon, under the hot sun light.

ATTENDS MEETING

W. B. Bryson, Clifton Pike, who is director of the Ohio State Farm Bureau Federation, went to Columbus Tuesday to attend the quarterly meeting of the directors Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday.

The directors were also scheduled to attend a meeting of the All-Ohio Tax League, which is supporting the proposed tax limit amendment, Tuesday morning at the Southern Hotel.

CHATTY—GODDESS OF GAB By BEATRICE BURTON, Author of: "HER MAN," "HONEY LOU," "SALLY'S SHOULDERS," "MONEY LOVE," "LOVE BOUND," etc.

COPYRIGHT 1929, CENTRAL PRESS ASS'N. INC., CLEVELAND, OHIO.

READ THIS FIRST:

Charlotte Chatterton, nicknamed Chatty, is a born gossip. Her mother, a widowed dressmaker, has one wealthy customer, Mrs. Van Nuys, and through her Chatty gets a job as switchboard operator in the Van Nuys bond house. There she meets and falls in love with David Jordan, handsome young bond salesman, and becomes jealous of his friendship with Agnes Herford, Mr. Van Nuys' secretary.

Billie Langenau, who works in the office, comes to live in the flat across the hall from where Chatty lives. Chatty's brother, Pud, goes to high school and works evenings in Ben Tomlinson's drug store. Chatty learns that he delivers gin for Ben, and begs him to stop before he is arrested, but Pud refuses to do it.

One day Chatty sees David hand a note to Agnes Herford. Jealous, she goes through Agnes' desk to look for it. It is a simple message about some bonds, but in hunting for it Chatty finds Agnes' diary, filled with the story of her love for Ben, and begs him to stop before he is arrested, but Pud refuses to do it.

Winnie Talcott, the office "vamp," gets Agnes' position. Winnie gets quite chummy with Chatty, and at a party Chatty meets Bryant Dunning, a new bond salesman. Winnie shows Chatty how to paint her face and "doll up." Bryant is married, but tells Chatty he has left his wife.

Now go on with THE STORY CHAPTER XXV

By the end of the first week in June everybody in the office knew that Chatty was "stepping out" with Bryant Dunning.

"Not that she told it!—Oh, no, indeed!"

Much as she loved to tell everything about everybody, herself included, she had far too much sense to let the little world of the Van Nuys company offices know that she was running around with a married man.

It was Bryant who let the cat out of the bag.

Billie had said that he was a "he-gossip," and she had struck the nail on the head.

In his man's way he talked quite as much as Chatty did in hers.

"If you MUST run around with him and the rest of that crew, why don't you make him stop talking about you in the office?" Billie asked Chatty on the second Saturday afternoon in June, when they were on their way home.

She wasn't a bit glad to see Agnes. But she was dying to see how Agnes was taking her exile.

Oh, she would call Mrs. Van up and tell her all about this in the morning! She certainly would.

"How does the new job go?" she asked, sitting down beside the pale, quiet looking girl. "New boss as nice to work for as Mr. Van was?"

Agnes shook her head.

"No one could ever be as nice to work for as Mr. Van," she said. "I can't talk to you about him, Chatty—or about his wife, I should say. You know her very well, don't you?"

Chatty nodded.

"Well, some time when you get a chance, I wish

The Theater

There are four things an actress can do about a report of her engagement to marry: Deny it; admit it; say it's broken or marry the man. Janet Gaynor, screen actress, has gone three quarters of the program and will finish the schedule this week.

Miss Gaynor, a former Chicago school girl, was reported engaged to Lydell Peck, San Francisco lawyer, a year ago, and denied it. Two months later, when the rumor popped up again, she said they had been engaged but the betrothal was broken. Last week, the rumor recurred, and she admitted its truth. This week she will wed.

Janet is a Cinderella of the cinema business. At the age of 12, she was discovered by Ziegfeld, who glorified by Ziegfeld, was Miss Eaton's maid of honor.

The exodus to Europe from the movie colony grows by leaps and bounds. J. P. Schulberg, Paramount chief and his wife, will leave shortly. Mr. and Mrs. George Bancroft have booked passage on the same ship, which is believed to be the Ile de France. Mr. and Mrs. Neil Hamilton are leaving for abroad soon on the fast-traveling Bremen. It will be the first European trip for both Bancroft and Hamilton.

Clive Brook, who has just completed the title role in the picture "The Return of Sherlock Holmes" in Paramount's Long Island studio, is remaining in Europe to play opposite Jeanne Eagels in "The Laughing Lady."

WOMAN MARRIED 26 YEARS IS SEEKING DIVORCE IN COURT

Anna Haines resents being called an "old blind bat" and after twenty-six years of married life has filed suit in Common Pleas Court for divorce from C. A. Haines, charging her husband with extreme cruelty. She asserts he mistreats her.

They were married in 1903 and have ten living children.

The defendant, according to the petition, owns a 163-acre farm on the Fairground Road and also has forty head of hogs, eight horses, seven milk cows, one heifer, six calves and the usual amount of farm implements and household goods. At the request of the plaintiff a temporary restraining order was issued by the court, enjoining the defendant from disposing of his property until further order of the court.

The plaintiff seeks to be awarded proper alimony and asks to be decreed custody of the following minor children: Henry, 17, Lavilla, 15, Giovina, 14, Gladys, 11, Richard, 8 and Ralph, 6.

SEEKS TO SATISFY JUDGMENT

Suit seeking to marshal liens and sell mortgaged real estate has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Fred Woodson against Harry E. White. The plaintiff claims to have recovered a judgment for $165 and costs against White in the court of R. O. Copsey, Xenia Twp. Justice of the Peace, December 20, 1928, and declares the judgment is unsatisfied. The People Building and Savings Co., The Brown Furniture Co. and The Greene County Lumber Co., named co-defendants, hold liens on the defendant's property and the plaintiff is unable to effect a sale of the premises, according to the petition. Attorney F. L. Johnson represents the plaintiff.

NOTE SUIT FILED

Alleging $4,744.92 is due on two promissory notes, Leslie S. Dean has filed suit in Common Pleas Court against Joshua H. Jones and Augusta E. Jones, seeking foreclosure of mortgaged property to satisfy his claim. F. H. Dean is attorney for the plaintiff.

FORECLOSURE ASKED

Foreclosure of mortgaged property is asked in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court against J. C. Corbett and Helen M. Jennings by John T. Harbine, Jr., who charges the defendants obtained a $50 loan which is unpaid. An accounting of money due on the note is also sought.

GRANT SIX DIVORCES

Six divorces have been obtained in Common Pleas Court, four by wives and two by husbands. Esther May Purdy, by her mother, Isabel Bullock, won a divorce from William Herman Furay on grounds of gross neglect of duty, the defendant withdrawing his answer and cross petition. The plaintiff was restored to her maiden name of Bullock. The court ordered the defendant to pay the plaintiff $250 but also ruled that he is to retain possession of all personal property belonging to both parties, as well as an automobile and real estate situated in Fairport, free of dower of the plaintiff.

Restoration to her former name of Walker was also obtained by Rozella Washington, who was granted a divorce from Marion Washington on grounds of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. They were married in April, 1917.

On grounds of extreme cruelty, Nancy Byrd was awarded a divorce from John Byrd, whom she married in Xenia. The plaintiff was restored to her former name of Busby. They have no children. Miriam Ankeney was granted a divorce from John Ankeney on grounds of gross neglect of duty.

Wilful absence from home for more than three years brought about a divorce won by William Dillard from Nellie Dillard. Lloyd J. Digby obtained a divorce from Minnie Digby on grounds of gross neglect of duty.

ORDER PARTITION

Partition of real estate has been authorized in the case of William H. Butler against Samuel C. Jones and others in Common Pleas Court. The plaintiff and defendants are tenants in common on the property. W. A. McDorman, C. Ray Reid and Arthur E. Wildman were appointed appraisers.

WINS JUDGMENT

The American Loan and Realty Co. has recovered a cognovit note judgment for $589.70 against George D. Oglesbee in Common Pleas Court.

DISMISS CASE

At the request of the plaintiff, the case of John T. Harbine, Jr. against Estey Ray Williams, Hazel E. Roland, Ida C. Williams, John G. Roland and Homer O. Hudson has been ordered dismissed in Common Pleas Court.

NAMED EXECUTRIX

Bernadina Hornick has been appointed executrix of the estate of John G. Hornick, deceased, without bond in Probate Court. F. W. Sanger, Jacob Kany and A. W. Tresise were named appraisers.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Paul Everett Wright, R. R. No. 1, Waynesville, welder, and Zora Lucille Smith, Jamestown. Rev. G. C. Foltz, Jeffersonville, O. George Wesley Stewart, Treble, farmer, and Victoria Lavina Butts, R. R. No. 8, Xenia. R. O. Copsey, J. P. Horace Alvin McCann, 329 High St., Xenia, Heman, and Gertrude Lehner, Springfield, were refused a license because of non-residence.

Pajama Paraders Get Pinched

Dorothy Yankus (left) and Elmanda Bennett (right), two Kenosha, Wisconsin, flappers, paraded the streets of Chicago in pajamas to pay a lost bet. The girls stopped traffic and were arrested.

XENIANS NOT USING AIR MAIL GREATLY POSTMASTER SAYS

Xenians have taken little interest in air mail service, the most modern method of transporting mail bags, in the opinion of Postmaster C. S. Frazer, who blames the condition on the fact this city is not on a regular air line.

Air mail service benefits only those Xenians who have letters intended for distant points, according to Postmaster Frazer. The postmaster explains that local patrons of the post office who desire the delivery of mail in the shortest possible time derive little benefit if the destination of the mail matter is not on the Pacific Coast.

Less than 1,000 air mail stamps of the five cent denomination and only 550 ten-cent stamps were sold at the local post office during the last year, he said. Postmaster Frazer pointed out that the government encourages the use of these stamps but that Xenia patrons have not been urged to patronize this service unless it benefits them.

DEATH CLAIMS FOR OHIO INCREASING

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 10.—There were 108 death claims filed with the State Industrial Commission during July, exceeding that for July 1928, by twenty. Thomas P. Kearns, superintendent of the safety division, reports.

Cuyahoga County reported twenty-five which exceeded its toll for June by eight; Franklin County had five and Summit, six, an increase of three each. Hamilton County with nine showed a decrease of two. Lucas County had six.

Of the 108 fatalities, forty-nine were from three causes: falls, twenty; motor vehicles, fifteen; and electricity, fourteen.

The commission will be represented along with the safety division and the attorney general at a conference to be held by the division of workshops and factories in October for the adoption of a permanent code of state requirements for the storing and destroying of X-ray films.

The inspection division has had forty inspectors over the state since the Cleveland Clinic disaster in May, caused by such films. T. C. Devine, chief of the division, reports conditions greatly improved throughout the state. He says many old films have been destroyed and that hospitals have shown a desire to co-operate.

INSTALL CLOTHING DEPARTMENT HERE

Sam Burgin and Sol Aronovitz, who purchased the Frazer shoe store some time ago and have been operating a shoe store in the same location, recently took over the De-Mint Toggery Shop assets and are installing a department of men's clothing and furnishings.

In addition they have purchased the bankrupt clothing stock of Flint and Cole, Frankfort, Ind., which merchandise is being used to stock the Xenia store. This merchandise will be placed on sale Friday, under direction of Mr. Aronovitz, part owner and manager.

EAST HIGH NOTES

Fourteen graduates of the sixteen who completed their work in East High School in 1928 are now enrolled in colleges.

The large number of graduates of the class of '29, having application blanks filled out for entrance to college indicates another large college attendance by a graduating class of East High.

The enrollment in East High and Lincoln Schools points to the greatest enrollment in years, at the beginning of school.

The new faculty members of East High and Lincoln Schools are Mr. Bruce McGowan, instructor of science and mathematics, Miss Lucetta Jones, grade one and Mrs. Ella Gee, grades two and three.

Mr. Clyde W. Barnett of Ohio University is cadet in mathematics under Mr. McGowan and Miss Summers.

A large squad answered Coach Maurice Jones' call for gridiron volunteers.

Mr. Cyrus B. Taylor, son of Prof. Arthur Taylor, principal of East High School is a senior in Hampton Institute and will be graduated in June with the degree, B. S. in architectural engineering.

Mr. Taylor recently wrote to friends here that he had a very interesting and educational cruise on the Atlantic Ocean this summer, being employed by the Clyde Steamship Company, a position secured for him, for the summer, by the students' employment agency of this school. His trips extended from New York City, south through the Gulf of Mexico to Galveston, Texas, and return and thence to Halifax, Nova Scotia through the St. Lawrence Gulf to Quebec.

side by side test
—let your own ears decide

HERE is our challenge to the whole world of radio: Come into our store today and we will put a Majestic set side-by-side with any other radio no matter how costly. We will connect both to the same aerial with a switch to operate them alternately. Now, make this side-by-side test under precisely the same conditions, considering each of these seven essential points:

Model 92

Power Detection and the new 45 tubes plus four tuned stages of radio frequency. Absolutely no hum and no oscillation at any wave length. Automatic sensitivity control gives uniform range and power all over the dial. Improved Majestic Super-Dynamic Speaker, Heavy, sturdy Majestic power unit, with positive voltage ballast. Jacobean period cabinet of American Walnut. Doors of matched but not walnut with overlays on doors and interior panel of genuine imported Australian lacewood. Escutcheon plate, knobs and door pulls finished in genuine silver.

TUNE IN... Majestic Theatre of the Air over Columbia and American Broadcasting Systems every Sunday night, 9 to 10 Eastern Daylight Saving Time. Headlines of the Stage and Screen.

TIME PAYMENTS in the purchase of Majestic Receivers are financed through the Majestic Plan at lowest available rates.

1. TONE—at every degree of volume.
2. SENSITIVITY—ability to bring in distant stations clearly at good volume.
3. SELECTIVITY—test each for sharp separation of stations.
4. EASE OF CONTROL—judge and compare for simplicity.
5. BEAUTY—of design, of woods, of finish. Watch details. Run your hand over each.
6. RELIABILITY—look inside and compare for extra power, size and strength.
7. QUIET OPERATION—free from A C hum, sputter and all background noise.

What could be fairer than this side-by-side test? Time after time we have said, "You cannot buy a better radio than Majestic at any price." This side-by-side test will prove it. Let your own ears and eyes decide.

We have a batch of the 10th and also the 17th of this month and still have a few chicks left from each hatch, the 10th hatch having the greater number however. We also have a few chicks left from the 3rd hatch (week old).

Along about Christmas time it will be real nice to have a fried chicken or to find the market on broilers about the peak. You will find January prices comparatively high too, so why not take a few of these chicks and make yourself some Christmas money.

As to the living and growing qualities of these chicks, just come down to the hatchery and see them yourself. See if they are big and husky with lots of pep and vitality to carry them through and make you money.

SIDE by SIDE test
—let your own ears decide

HERE is our challenge to the whole world of radio: Come into our store today and we will put a Majestic set side-by-side with any other radio no matter how costly. We will connect both to the same aerial with a switch to operate them alternately. Now, make this side-by-side test under precisely the same conditions, considering each of these seven essential points:

1. TONE—at every degree of volume.
2. SENSITIVITY—ability to bring in distant stations clearly at good volume.
3. SELECTIVITY—test each for sharp separation of stations.
4. EASE OF CONTROL—judge and compare for simplicity.
5. BEAUTY—of design, of woods, of finish. Watch details. Run your hand over each.
6. RELIABILITY—look inside and compare for extra power, size and strength.
7. QUIET OPERATION—free from A C hum, sputter and all background noise.
